e) concessions granted by law or by virtue of a public law contract, including concessions to explore, cultivate, extract or exploit natural resources.

Modifications in the form of investment of the assets do not affect their character of investment.

2. The term "income" means the amount produced by an investment, including: dividends, profits, sums from the total or partial payment of the liquidation of an investment, interest, capital gains, royalties or fees.

2. Each Party shall protect within its territory investments made by investors of the other Party, in accordance with its laws and regulations, and shall not hinder the management, use, enjoyment, extension, sale and liquidation of such investments through unjustified or discriminatory measures. Income derived from an investment, as well as income derived from the reinvestment thereof, shall enjoy the same protection as the investment itself.
3. In any case, each Party shall treat investments fairly and equitably.

Article 3. Treatment of Investments

1. Neither Party shall subject in its territory investments owned or controlled by investors of the other Party to treatment less favorable than that accorded to investments of its own investors or to investments of investors of Third States.
2. Neither Party shall subject in its territory investors of the other Party, in respect of their activities relating to their investments, to treatment less favorable than that accorded to its own investors or to investors of Third States.
3. Such treatment does not relate to privileges granted by a Party to investors of Third States by reason of their membership in a Customs or Economic Union, a Common Market or a Free Trade Area, or by reason of their association with such groupings.
4. The treatment accorded by this Article does not relate to advantages granted by a Party to investors of Third States as a result of an agreement for the avoidance of double taxation or other agreements on tax matters.
5. If a Party's legal provisions or obligations under international law outside this Agreement, present or future, between the Parties result in a general or special regulation under which investments of investors of the other Party are to be accorded treatment more favorable than that provided for in this Agreement, such regulation shall prevail over this Agreement.
6. Nothing in this Article shall be construed to prevent a Party from adopting, maintaining or enforcing any measure it considers appropriate to ensure that investments in its territory comply with that Party's environmental laws.

Article 4. Migratory Status of Investors

Each Party shall permit the entry into and sojourn in its territory of investors of the other Party and persons employed by them, for the purpose of establishing, developing, managing or advising on the operation of the investment, in which such investors have committed or are about to commit capital or other resources, subject to the laws of each Party relating to the entry and sojourn of aliens in their respective territories.

Article 5. Protection of Property

3. Compensation shall correspond to the market value of the expropriated investment prior to the date of disclosure of the actual or imminent expropriation. The compensation shall be paid without delay and shall bear interest from the date of expropriation until the date of payment at the usual bank interest rate; it shall be effectively realizable and freely transferable. At the latest at the time of expropriation, due arrangements shall have been made to fix and pay the compensation.
4. Each Party shall accord to investors of the other Party, in respect of investments which suffer losses in its territory due to war or other armed conflict, a state of national emergency, civil disturbance and other similar events, non-discriminatory treatment and shall receive, in respect of redress, indemnification, compensation or other settlement, treatment no less favorable than that accorded to its own investors or to investors of a Third State. These amounts shall be freely transferable.
