Chapter 3. GOOD REGULATORY PRACTICES

Article 3.1. Definitions

For the purposes of this Chapter:

regulatory impact analysis is the systematic process of analyzing and determining the impact of regulatory measures, based on the definition of a problem. This analysis is a fundamental public policy tool for evidence-based decision making, allowing the presentation of alternatives so that the regulatory authority can choose the option it deems appropriate to solve the problem and maximize social welfare; good regulatory practices refers to the use of tools in the process of planning, drafting, adoption, implementation, review and follow-up of regulatory measures; public consultation is the participatory mechanism, of a consultative and non-binding nature, by means of which the State, during a reasonable period of time, collects data and opinions from society in relation to a regulatory measure project; and regulatory measures refer to measures of general application determined in accordance with Article 3.3, related to any matter covered by this Agreement, adopted by the regulatory authorities, and whose observance is mandatory.

Article 3.2. General Objective

The general objective of this Chapter is to strengthen and encourage the adoption of good regulatory practices, in order to promote the establishment of a regulatory environment that is transparent and with predictable procedures and steps for both citizens and economic operators.

Article 3.3. Scope of Application

Each Party shall, in accordance with its law and no later than one year after the entry into force of this Agreement, determine and make publicly available the regulatory measures to which the provisions of this Chapter shall apply. In making such determination, each Party shall consider achieving meaningful coverage.

Article 3.4. General Provisions

1. The Parties reaffirm their commitment to the adoption of good regulatory practices in order to facilitate trade in goods and services, as well as the flow of investment between them.

2. The provisions of this Chapter shall not affect the right of the Parties to:

(a) adopt, maintain or establish such regulatory measures as they deem appropriate, in accordance with their respective regulatory and administrative procedures and other internationally agreed commitments, with a view to achieving legitimate public policy objectives; or

(b) identify their regulatory priorities in the area and at the levels of government they consider appropriate.

Article 3.5. Establishment of Coordination Processes or Mechanisms

1. The Parties recognize that good regulatory practices can be fostered through effective interagency coordination, such that each Party:

(a) promote the creation and strengthening of domestic mechanisms that facilitate effective interagency coordination;

(b) shall seek to develop internal processes within each competent body for the development and review of regulatory measures aimed at promoting good regulatory practices; and

(c) may establish or maintain coordination processes at the national or central level.

2. The Parties recognize that the processes referred to in paragraph 1 may vary according to their respective circumstances, including differences in political and institutional structures. Nevertheless, the Parties should seek to:

(a) encourage that, at the stage of developing draft and proposed regulatory measures, international regulatory best practices, including those set out in Article 3.6, be taken into consideration;

(b) strengthen coordination and intensify consultations among national governmental institutions to identify possible duplications and avoid the creation of inconsistent regulatory measures;

(c) promote good regulatory practice policies on a systematic basis; and

(d) publicly report any proposals for systemic regulatory improvement actions.

Article 3.6. Implementation of Good Regulatory Practices

1. Each Party shall encourage its respective competent regulatory authorities to submit drafts and proposed amendments to regulatory measures for public consultation, for a reasonable period of time, to allow interested parties to comment.

2. Each Party should encourage its competent regulatory authorities to conduct, in accordance with its national legislation, a regulatory impact analysis (RIA) prior to the adoption and proposed modification of regulatory measures that have a significant economic impact, or, where appropriate, another criterion established by that Party.

3. Recognizing that institutional, social, cultural and legal differences may result in specific regulatory approaches, regulatory impact assessments conducted should, inter alia:

(a) identify the problem to be solved, the actors or groups affected, the legal basis for the proposed action, existing international references, and the objectives to be achieved;

(b) describe the feasible alternatives to address the identified problem, including the no action option, and state their possible impacts;

(c) compare the alternatives proposed, indicating, with justification, the solution or combination of solutions considered most appropriate to achieve the objectives pursued;

(d) be based on the best available scientific, technical, economic or other relevant information available to the respective regulatory authorities within the framework of their competencies, mandate, capacity and resources; and

(e) describe the strategy for the implementation of the suggested solution, including forms of monitoring and enforcement where appropriate, as well as the need for modification or repeal of existing regulatory measures.

4. Each Party should encourage its competent regulatory authorities, when developing regulatory measures, to take into consideration international and foreign references, to the extent appropriate and consistent with domestic law.

5. Each Party should ensure that new regulatory measures are clearly written, concise, organized and easily understood, recognizing the possibility of involving technical issues that require specialized knowledge for their correct understanding and application.

6. Each Party shall endeavor to ensure that its competent regulatory authorities, in accordance with its national legislation, facilitate public access to information on draft and proposed regulatory measures and make such information available on the Internet.

7. Each Party shall seek to maintain or establish domestic procedures for the review of existing regulatory measures, as often as it considers appropriate, to determine whether they should be modified, expanded, simplified, or repealed, with the objective of making its regulatory regime more effective.

Article 3.7. Cooperation

1. The Parties shall cooperate in order to properly implement this Chapter and to maximize the benefits derived from it. Cooperative activities shall take into account the needs of each Party and may include:

(a) information exchange, dialogues, bilateral meetings or meetings between the Parties and stakeholders, including MSMEs;

(b) training programs, seminars and other technical assistance initiatives;

(c) strengthening cooperation and other relevant activities between regulatory authorities;

(d) exchange of data, information and practices related to the development of new regulatory measures, including the conduct of public consultations;

(e) exchange of data, information, methodologies and practices of regulatory impact analysis, with estimation of potential costs and benefits of the regulatory measure, as well as of the implementation plan of the project or proposal;

(f) exchange of methodologies and practices related to the ex post review of regulatory measures; and

(g) exchange of experiences on the management of existing regulatory measures.

2. The Parties recognize that regulatory cooperation depends on a commitment that national regulatory measures are developed and made available in a transparent manner.

Article 3.8. Administration of the Chapter

1. The Parties shall establish focal points, who shall be responsible for following up on matters relating to the implementation of this Chapter.

2. The focal points may meet semi-annually, in person or by any other agreed technological means, and shall prepare annual reports of their activities, unless otherwise agreed by the Parties.

3. The Parties shall, every three (3) years from the entry into force of this Agreement, consider the need for a review of this Chapter, in light of milestones in the area of good regulatory practices at the international level and the experiences accumulated by the Parties.

Article 3.9. Implementation Reports

1. Each Party shall, for purposes of transparency and cooperation, two (2) years after the entry into force of this Agreement and, successively, every three (3) years, send a report on the implementation of the Chapter, through its focal point.

2. In its first report, each Party shall describe the actions implemented and those planned, including those to:

(a) establish internal processes and mechanisms to facilitate interagency coordination, in accordance with Article 3.5;

(b) encourage their competent regulatory authorities to conduct regulatory impact assessments, in accordance with Articles 3.6.2 and 3.6.3;

(c) ensure that draft or proposed regulatory measures are accessible, in accordance with Articles 3.6.5 and 3.6.6; and

(d) review regulatory measures, in accordance with Article 3.6.7.

3. In successive reports, each Party shall describe the actions taken since the previous report, as well as those it plans to take, to implement this Chapter.

4. For the implementation of this Chapter, the Parties shall review the implementation reports referred to in this Article. During this review, the Parties may discuss and ask questions about specific aspects of such reports.

Article 3.10. Relationship with other Chapters

In the event of any inconsistency between this Chapter and another Chapter of this Agreement, the other Chapter shall prevail to the extent of the inconsistency.

Article 3.11. Settlement of Disputes

Neither Party may have recourse to the dispute settlement mechanism provided for in Chapter 22 (Dispute Settlement) with respect to any matter arising under this Chapter.

Chapter 4. SANITARY AND PHYTOSANITARY MEASURES

Article 4.1. Incorporation of the SPS Agreement

1. The Agreement on the Application of Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures of the World Trade Organization (hereinafter referred to as the "SPS Agreement") is incorporated into and made part of this Chapter, mutatis mutandis.

2. The Parties stress the importance of implementing the Decisions adopted by consensus within the framework of the WTO Committee on Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (hereinafter referred to as the "WTO SPS Committee").

Article 4.2. Objectives

The objectives of this Chapter are:

(a) to protect human, animal and plant health and life in the territory of each Party, while facilitating trade between the Parties;

(b) to ensure that the Parties' sanitary and phytosanitary measures do not create unjustified barriers to trade;

(c) to promote the implementation of the SPS Agreement and the standards, guidelines and recommendations developed by the international reference organizations identified by the SPS Agreement: the Codex Alimentarius Commission (CODEX), the World Organization for Animal Health ("OIE") and the International Plant Protection Convention (IPPC); and

(d) provide the means to improve communication, cooperation and resolve any SPS difficulties arising from the implementation of this Chapter.

Article 4.3. Scope of Application

This Chapter shall apply to all sanitary and phytosanitary measures of the Parties, pursuant to the SPS Agreement, that may, directly or indirectly, affect trade in goods between the Parties.

Article 4.4. Establishment of Import Requirements

The importing Party undertakes to establish and report, without undue delay, the sanitary and phytosanitary requirements for the products identified by the exporting Party.

Article 4.5. Risk Analysis

1. Where risk analysis is necessary, it shall be conducted taking into account the risk analysis techniques adopted within the framework of the international reference organizations of the SPS Agreement.
2. The exporting Party shall provide the importing Party with all information necessary to conduct a risk analysis in accordance with the provisions of the SPS Agreement and its international reference organizations.
3. Any reassessment of risk, in situations where there is regular and fluid trade in goods between the Parties, shall not be a reason to interrupt trade in such goods, except when a sanitary or phytosanitary emergency situation is in progress.
4. The Parties may establish, by mutual agreement in the SPS Committee referred to in Article 4.14, specific procedures and deadlines for carrying out the risk analysis based on the standards, guidelines and recommendations approved by the international reference organizations of the SPS Agreement.
5. The results of the risk analysis that may affect trade between the Parties shall be reported in writing, with the scientific and technical reasons for the decision.

Article 4.6. Equivalence and Qualification

1. Equivalence arrangements between the Parties shall be established in accordance with the Decisions adopted by the SPS Committee of the WTO and the standards, guidelines and recommendations adopted by the international reference organizations of the SPS Agreement.
2. A Party may request an equivalence determination from the other Party for any sanitary or phytosanitary measure or group of sanitary or phytosanitary measures for a product or group of products.
3. The Parties shall initiate steps towards the process of recognition of equivalence of their sanitary and phytosanitary measures and their respective control and approval procedures.
4. The exporting Party shall provide appropriate scientifically based and technical information, with a view to objectively demonstrate that its sanitary and phytosanitary measure achieves the appropriate level of protection defined by the importing Party.
5. If the evaluation does not result in the recognition of equivalence, the importing Party shall inform in writing the scientific and technical reasons for its determination.
6. At the request of the exporting Party, in the event that a sanitary or phytosanitary measure applied by the importing Party may affect trade, the importing Party shall examine whether, exceptionally, an alternative sanitary or phytosanitary measure ensures its appropriate level of protection.
7. At the request of the exporting Party, the importing Party shall approve the list of exporting plants, without prior individual inspection of such plants, upon delivery of guarantees demonstrating compliance with the sanitary and safety requirements established by the importing Party. This procedure is conditioned to the process of recognition of equivalence of their sanitary measures, with a view to facilitate trade between the Parties based on the knowledge of their sanitary control and verification systems. The above, without prejudice to Article 4.8.
8. In the event of refusals to authorize establishments for export, the importing Party shall inform the exporting Party of the reasons that justified its decision in accordance with the SPS Agreement. If such justification is not received or is considered unsatisfactory, the exporting Party may request consultations within the framework of the SPS Committee, through the Competent Authorities mentioned in Annex I.

Article 4.7. Control, Inspection and Approval Procedures

1. The application of control, inspection and approval procedures shall not become disguised restrictions on trade between the Parties and shall be carried out in accordance with the SPS Agreement and the international standards, guidelines and recommendations set by the SPS Agreement reference bodies.
2. The Parties shall agree, where possible, on the simplification of controls and verifications, as well as the frequency of inspections based on the risks involved and the international standards, guidelines and recommendations adopted by the SPS Agreement reference bodies.

Article 4.8. Audit Systems

1. The importing Party may conduct on-site audits of the exporting Party's inspection systems.
2. If an audit is conducted to verify compliance with sanitary and phytosanitary requirements, it shall comply with the requirements set forth in the SPS Agreement and, in particular, Annex C thereof. Specifically, the audit shall be limited exclusively to the verification of what is technically necessary, without causing undue delay and unnecessary costs.
3. Each Party, within the framework of this Chapter, has the right to receive information on the control system of the other Party and the results of the controls carried out under such system.
4. The deadlines for the submission of reports on the audit by the importing Party, the submission of comments by the exporting Party, and the publication of the final report by the importing Party shall be agreed by the SPS Committee as set out in Article 4.14.4(c).

Article 4.9. Recognition of Sanitary and Phytosanitary Status

1. The exporting Party shall be responsible for objectively demonstrating to the importing Party the country, area or zone's pest or disease free or low pest prevalence status.
2. In such cases, the pest or disease free or low pest prevalence area or zone shall be subject to effective surveillance, disease or pest control or eradication measures and other requirements, in accordance with relevant international standards.
3. The Parties may establish, by mutual agreement in the SPS Committee, the procedures and deadlines for the recognition of a pest or disease free or low prevalence area or zone, based on the standards, guidelines and recommendations adopted by the international reference organizations of the SPS Agreement.
4. The Parties undertake to recognize their respective disease free areas or zones recognized by the OIE, expeditiously and without undue delay.
5. If an on-site visit by the importing Party to the exporting Party is necessary for the verification of compliance with sanitary and phytosanitary requirements or for the recognition of free areas or zones or areas of low prevalence, the visit shall comply with the rules provided for in the SPS Agreement and, in particular, Annex C thereof. In particular, the visit shall be limited exclusively to verifying in situ what is necessary from a technical point of view, without extending beyond what is necessary or generating unnecessary costs.

Article 4.10. Import Control at the Border

1. The importing Party shall take steps to ensure that products originating from the exporting Party are subject to import verification procedures as expeditiously as possible.
2. The importing Party shall inform the exporting Party, as expeditiously as possible, of the results of import verification procedures in the case of products that are rejected or do not meet the requirements established for importation.
3. The Parties shall endeavor to reduce the frequency of verification procedures for physical sanitary and phytosanitary controls applied by the importing Party to the products of the exporting Party, in accordance with the results obtained taking into account the risks involved and the results of the verifications.

Article 4.11. Exchange of Information

1. The Parties shall exchange information on matters related to the development and application of sanitary and phytosanitary measures that may affect trade between them, as well as on scientific developments or new scientific information available that is relevant to this Chapter.
2. The Parties shall inform, within forty-eight (48) hours following the confirmation of a problem, the changes that occur in animal health matters, such as the appearance of diseases or sanitary alerts on food products that fall within the criteria for immediate notification defined in international standards.
3. Changes in phytosanitary matters, such as the appearance of quarantine pests or the spread of pests under official control, shall be reported within seventy-two (72) hours of their verification.

Article 4.12. Transparency

1. The Parties recognize the importance of observing the rules on notification provided for in the SPS Agreement and, in this regard, shall consider compliance with these obligations sufficient to strengthen transparency in bilateral trade.
2. At the request of the other Party, the Party notifying a sanitary or phytosanitary measure that may involve restrictions on bilateral trade shall provide a scientific justification, based on the disciplines of the SPS Agreement, within as expeditious a period as possible.
3. In all cases of adoption of an emergency sanitary or phytosanitary measure affecting the exchange of goods between the Parties, the Party adopting the measure shall, without undue delay, notify the other Party of the measure and its justification. This obligation shall be considered fulfilled if the Party adopting the measure has submitted its notification to the SPS Committee of the WTO.

Emergency sanitary or phytosanitary measures shall be maintained only as long as the threats or causes that gave rise to them persist.

4. The Parties shall strengthen the reciprocal transparency of their sanitary and phytosanitary measures by publishing the measures adopted on free and publicly accessible official websites.

Article 4.13. Technical Cooperation

1. The Parties agree to give special importance to technical cooperation to facilitate the implementation of this Chapter.
2. The Competent Authorities of the Parties, mentioned in Annex I, may enter into agreements for cooperation and coordination of activities.
3. The Parties shall seek, where possible, to coordinate positions in regional or multilateral fora where international sanitary and phytosanitary standards, guidelines or recommendations are developed or aspects related thereto are negotiated.

Article 4.14. Committee on Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures

1. The Parties establish the Committee on Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (hereinafter referred to as the "SPS Committee") for the purpose of monitoring the implementation of this Chapter.

The SPS Committee shall be composed of the Competent Authorities and Contact Points designated by each Party, as indicated in Annex I.

2. The SPS Committee shall meet on an ordinary basis at least once a year, unless the Parties agree otherwise, in person, and at least once a year, unless the Parties agree otherwise, on a regular basis.

The SPS Committee shall meet in person, by teleconference, videoconference or other means that ensure an adequate level of functioning, and extraordinarily, whenever the Parties deem it appropriate.

3. When the meetings are face-to-face, they shall be held alternately in the territory of each Party and it shall be the responsibility of the host Party to organize the meeting.

4. The functions of the SPS Committee shall be:

(a) to exchange information on the Competent Authorities and Contact Points of each Party, detailing their areas of competence. The corresponding information included in Annex I may be updated in the event of modifications;

(b) promote cooperation and technical assistance, including cooperation in the development, application and enforcement of sanitary or phytosanitary measures;

(c) exchange information and propose procedures and deadlines for the bilateral implementation of the disciplines provided for in the Chapter;

(d) to entertain, upon written request of a Party, consultations on any matter arising under this Chapter;

(e) establish technical working groups in the fields of animal and plant health and such others as they deem appropriate;

(f) keep the Administrative Commission informed of the work carried out by the SPS Committee; and

(g) develop all those actions that the Parties consider pertinent for the fulfillment of this Chapter.

5. In order to order its functioning, the SPS Committee shall establish its own rules of procedure, if possible during its first meeting. The SPS Committee may revise these rules when it deems appropriate.

Article 4.15. Consultation Mechanism

1. The Parties may hold consultations to discuss and suggest any procedures for resolving difficulties arising from the application of this Chapter. Consultations may be held by electronic mail, teleconference, or other means. The Party requesting the consultations shall prepare minutes, which shall be approved by the Parties.

2. If the Parties do not reach a satisfactory solution after the consultations, the case shall be submitted to the SPS Committee which shall

2. If the Parties do not reach a satisfactory solution after consultations, the case shall be submitted to the SPS Committee, which shall meet in extraordinary session.

Chapter 5. TECHNICAL BARRIERS TO TRADE

Article 5.1. Objective

The objective of this Chapter is to facilitate trade in goods between the Parties by identifying, preventing and eliminating unnecessary technical barriers to trade, improving transparency and promoting cooperation between the Parties on matters dealt with under this Chapter.

Article 5.2. Relationship to the WTO TBT Agreement

The Parties reaffirm their rights and obligations under the WTO Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade (hereinafter referred to as the "TBT Agreement") which is incorporated into and made part of this Chapter, mutatis mutandis.

Article 5.3. Scope of Application

1. This Chapter shall apply to the development, adoption and application of standards, technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures of the Parties, as defined in Annex I of the TBT Agreement, including those of central level of government and local governmental bodies that may directly or indirectly affect trade in goods between the Parties.

2. The provisions of this Chapter shall not apply to the Parties' sanitary and phytosanitary measures, which shall be governed by Chapter 4 (Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures).

3. Government procurement specifications prepared by governmental agencies for the production or consumption needs of such agencies are not subject to the provisions of this Chapter, which shall be governed by Chapter 12 (Government Procurement).

4. The application of Article 50 of the Treaty of Montevideo of 1980, with respect to technical barriers to trade, shall be governed by the provisions of this Chapter.

Article 5.4. Trade Facilitating Initiatives

1. The Parties recognize the importance of intensifying their collaboration in order to increase mutual understanding of their respective systems and to identify trade facilitation initiatives that contribute to the elimination and reduction of technical barriers to trade.

2. The Parties shall negotiate, whenever possible, trade facilitation initiatives in the areas of technical standards, technical regulations, conformity assessment procedures, including accreditation and metrology, in accordance with the provisions of the TBT Agreement.
3. A Party may propose to the other Party a joint analysis on sectors, products or group of products or potential regulatory issues, in which they may negotiate trade facilitation initiatives in order to increase the flow of bilateral trade. In the event that one of the Parties considers that this is not possible, the provisions of paragraph 6 shall apply.
4. The Parties shall exchange information related to the subject matter of the analysis referred to in paragraph 3 and shall encourage the participation of representatives of their productive sector, under the modality they agree upon, and of their competent regulatory and governmental authorities.
5. The Parties, through their competent regulatory and governmental authorities, shall select, on a case-by-case basis, the appropriate tools to address the issue that has given rise to the request. For each sector, product or group of products identified, the Parties shall determine, by mutual agreement, trade facilitation initiatives, which may include, among others:
 - (a) exchange of information on regulatory practices and approaches;
 - (b) initiatives for further harmonization of technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures with relevant international standards;
 - (c) regulatory convergence actions;
 - (d) use of accreditation to qualify conformity assessment bodies; and
 - (e) mutual or unilateral recognition of conformity assessment procedures and their results conducted in the other Party.
6. When a Party does not accept the request to analyze a sector or a set of sectors, products, groups of products or the suggestion of a proposed trade facilitation initiative, it shall promptly present the reasons for such decision and offer, if possible, alternatives.
7. Trade facilitation initiatives shall be defined on a case-by-case basis by the Parties. To this end, the Parties shall establish ad hoc sectoral or thematic working groups, with the actors they deem appropriate, and shall seek to develop a work schedule, as well as other aspects that the Parties may mutually agree upon.
8. The Parties shall implement the results of the understandings reached under this Article, through the appropriate instrument and as mutually agreed.

Article 5.5. Technical Regulations

1. The Parties agree to make best use of good regulatory practices with respect to the development, adoption, and application of technical regulations, as provided for in the TBT Agreement.
2. The Parties reaffirm the commitment to use relevant international standards as the basis for their technical regulations, except where such international standards would be an ineffective or inappropriate means for the achievement of the legitimate objectives pursued.
3. Where international standards have not been used as a basis for a technical regulation that may have a significant effect on trade, a Party shall explain, at the request of the other Party, the reasons why such standards have been considered inappropriate or ineffective for the objective pursued.
4. The Parties shall encourage their competent regulatory authorities to conduct regulatory impact assessments in accordance with their respective rules and procedures.
5. In developing technical regulations, which have an impact on MSMEs, the Parties should consider the potential impact on MSMEs.

Article 5.6. Standards

1. The Parties reaffirm the commitment set out in paragraph 1 of Article 4 of the TBT Agreement to take all reasonable measures to ensure that all governmental or non-governmental standardizing bodies and other private entities that develop and apply standards in their trade relations accept and comply with the Code of Good Practice for the Preparation, Adoption and Application of Standards, Annex 3 of the TBT Agreement, and shall also take into account, to the extent possible, the principles set out in the Decision of the Committee on Principles for the Development of International Standards, Guides and Recommendations in relation to Articles 2, 5 and Annex 3 of the Agreement, adopted by the WTO Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade on 13 November 2000, and its subsequent revisions.

2. In determining whether an international standard, guidance or recommendation within the meaning of Articles 2 and 5 of the TBT Agreement and Annex 3 thereto exists, each Party shall consider the Decisions and Recommendations adopted by the WTO Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade since 1 January 1995, Annexes to Part I.2 (G/TBT/1/Rev.13) and subsequent revisions thereto.

Article 5.7. Conformity Assessment

1. The Parties recognize that the choice of appropriate conformity assessment procedures depends on the institutional structure and legal provisions in force in each Party, within the framework of the obligations under the TBT Agreement.

2. The Parties recognize the existence of differences in conformity assessment procedures in their respective territories, and agree that such procedures shall not be more stringent or applied more strictly than necessary to give the importing Party adequate confidence that products comply with technical regulations or standards, taking into account the risks that non-compliance would create.

3. The Parties recognize that there is a wide range of mechanisms that facilitate the acceptance of conformity assessment results conducted in the territory of the other Party, including, but not limited to:

- (a) voluntary agreements between conformity assessment bodies in the territory of the Parties;
- (b) agreements on mutual acceptance of the results of conformity assessment procedures with respect to specific technical regulations conducted by bodies located in the territory of the other Party;
- (c) accreditation procedures for qualifying conformity assessment bodies;
- (d) government approval or designation of conformity assessment bodies;
- (e) the recognition of the results of conformity assessments carried out in the territory of the other Party; and
- (f) the importing Party's acceptance of the supplier's declaration of conformity.

4. The Parties undertake to:

- (a) exchange information on different mechanisms with a view to facilitating the acceptance of conformity assessment results;
- (b) encourage testing, inspection and certification bodies to exchange experiences on the procedures used to assess conformity; and
- (c) promote the exchange of information on accreditation systems and encourage accreditation bodies to participate actively in international cooperative arrangements in the field of accreditation, such as the International Laboratory Accreditation Cooperation (ILAC) and the International Accreditation Forum (IAF).

5. For purposes of transparency and mutual confidence, if a Party does not accept the results of conformity assessment procedures carried out in the territory of the other Party, it shall, at the request of that other Party, explain the reasons for its decision.

6. Each Party shall accord to the subsidiaries of the other Party's conformity assessment bodies located in its territory, treatment no less favorable than that accorded to its own bodies.

7. With the objective of increasing mutual confidence in the results of conformity assessment, a Party may request information from the other Party on the technical competence of the conformity assessment bodies involved, among others. Additionally, the Parties should consider facilitating access of technicians to their territories to demonstrate their conformity assessment schemes and systems.

Article 5.8. Transparency

1. The Parties shall ensure transparency with respect to information on technical regulations, standards, and conformity assessment procedures.

2. The Parties shall notify each other electronically, through the contact point established by each Party, and in accordance with Article 10 of the TBT Agreement, regarding drafts and amendments of technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures, as well as those adopted to address urgent problems under the terms of the TBT Agreement, at the same time that they send the notification to the WTO Central Registry of Notifications. Such notification shall include an electronic link to the notified document or a copy thereof.

3. The Parties shall notify even those draft technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures that are consistent with the technical content of relevant international standards.

4. Each Party shall publish adopted technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures on official and publicly accessible websites.

5. Each Party shall, in accordance with its domestic procedures, allow interested persons of the other Party to participate in the development of its standards, technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures on terms no less favorable than those accorded to its nationals.

6. For each Party to prepare written comments on the drafts and amendments of technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures, a period of at least sixty (60) days shall be granted, from the publication in the Official Gazette in the case of Brazil, or from the notification referred to in paragraph 2 in the case of Chile. The foregoing is excepted in cases in which urgent problems arise or threaten to arise for the Parties. Each Party shall consider positively the well-founded requests of the other Party to extend the comment period.

7. Subject to the conditions specified in Article 2.12 of the TBT Agreement on the reasonable period of time between the publication of technical regulations and their entry into force, the Parties understand that the term "reasonable period of time" normally means a period of not less than six (6) months, except where this would not be practicable to achieve the legitimate objectives pursued.

Article 5.9. Consultations on Specific Commercial Concerns

1. Each Party shall give prompt and positive consideration to any request by the other Party for consultations on specific trade concerns relating to the application of this Chapter.

2. A Party that considers itself affected by a technical regulation, standard, or conformity assessment procedure that may be considered a technical barrier to trade shall submit in writing its concern to the other Party, including the following information:

(a) identification of the institution responsible for the application of the measure;

(b) description of the problem and, if possible, identification of the measure;

(c) description of the product(s) affected;

(d) objective or justification for the consultation; and

(e) proposals for possible solutions.

3. The other Party shall respond to the concern submitted in writing within sixty (60) days, including the following information:

(a) the reasons for the choice of the measure or for the decision not to accept results of a conformity assessment procedure, including the technical-scientific justification if the measure does not coincide with relevant international standards, guidelines or recommendations or if these do not exist;

(b) the explanation of the legitimate objectives and how the technical regulation or conformity assessment procedure achieves them, as appropriate.

4. If the concern of the Party considered to be affected is not eliminated by the response of the other Party, the issue may be addressed as soon as possible, considering the different mechanisms established in this Chapter.

5. Each Party shall ensure the participation, as appropriate, of representatives of its competent governmental regulatory authorities within the scope of this Chapter.

Article 5.10. Cooperation

1. The Parties agree to cooperate to:

- (a) strengthen their respective metrology, standardization, technical regulation, and conformity assessment bodies, as well as their information and notification systems within the structure of the TBT Agreement;
- (b) strengthen technical confidence among such bodies, primarily for the purpose of achieving the implementation of the tools referred to in Article 5.4;
- (c) increase and improve participation and, whenever possible, seek coordination of common positions in international organizations on matters related to standardization and conformity assessment procedures;
- (d) whenever possible, support the development and implementation of relevant international standards;
- (e) promote training necessary for the purposes of this Chapter;
- (f) promote technical assistance through competent regional or international organizations; and
- (g) develop joint activities among the technical bodies involved in the activities covered by this Chapter.

2. The Parties shall cooperate with each other in the exchange of information on private standards that may affect trade. The Parties shall also encourage private bodies to develop them so that, inter alia, they are truthful, do not mislead the consumer and take into account scientific and technical information; are based on relevant international standards, guides or recommendations and best practices, if applicable and available; do not treat a product less favorably on the basis of its origin; and do not constitute unnecessary barriers to trade.

Article 5.11. Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade

1. The Parties hereby establish a Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade (hereinafter referred to as the "Committee"), which shall be composed of:

- (a) in the case of Brazil, by representatives of the Divisão de Acesso a Mercados del Ministério de Relações Exteriores, or its successor, and.
- (b) in the case of Chile, the Dirección de Asuntos Económicos Bilaterales of the Dirección General de Relaciones Económicas Internacionales, or its successor.

2. With the objective of facilitating communication of activities under this Chapter, each Party shall designate and notify a contact point to the Committee. In addition, each Party shall promptly notify the other Party of any changes to its contact point or details of relevant officials.

3. The responsibilities of the contact points referred to in paragraph 2 shall include:

- (a) providing information or explanation at the request of the other Party, which shall be submitted in hard copy or electronic form within sixty (60) days of the submission of the request. The requested Party shall endeavor to respond to each request within thirty (30) days of the submission of the request;
- (b) coordinate the participation of relevant governmental authorities, including regulatory authorities, and, as appropriate, other interested parties, on matters related to this Chapter; and
- (c) carrying out additional responsibilities specified by the Committee.

4. The functions of the Committee shall include:

- (a) monitoring the implementation and administration of this Chapter, addressing any problems raised by either Party relating to its provisions;
- (b) fostering and enhancing cooperation in the development and improvement of standards, technical regulations, or conformity assessment procedures, in accordance with Article 5.10;
- (c) facilitate cooperation in accordance with Article 5.10, as well as support Trade Facilitation Initiatives and technical discussions as appropriate, in accordance with Article 5.4;
- (d) exchange information on work being undertaken in non-governmental, regional, multilateral fora and cooperative programs involved in activities related to standards, technical regulations, and conformity assessment procedures;
- (e) review this Chapter in light of developments within the WTO Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade and develop recommendations to modify this Chapter, if necessary;

(f) report to the Administrative Commission on the implementation of this Chapter;

(g) to establish, if necessary, for particular matters or sectors, working groups to deal with specific matters related to this Chapter and the TBT Agreement;

(h) to address, at the request of a Party, consultations on specific trade concerns arising under Article 5.9 and other relevant provisions of this Chapter; and

(i) take any other action that the Parties consider will assist them in the implementation of this Chapter and the TBT Agreement, with a view to facilitating trade in goods between the Parties.

3. The Committee shall meet as often as necessary, at the request of the Parties. The meetings shall be held in person, by teleconference, videoconference or by any other means, as agreed by the Parties.

Chapter 6. Cross-border Trade In Services

Article 6.1. Definitions

For purposes of this Chapter:

Cross-border trade in services or cross-border supply of services means the supply of a service:

(a) From the territory of one Party to the territory of the other Party;

(b) In the territory of a Party, to a person of the other Party, or

(c) By a national of a Party in the territory of the other Party;

But does not include the provision of a service in the territory of a Party for an investment, such as defined in Article 8.1 (Definitions);

Measures adopted or maintained by a Party means measures adopted or maintained by:

(a) Governments or authorities at the central, federal, regional or local level of a Party, or

(b) Non-governmental organizations in the exercise of powers delegated by governments or authorities at the central, federal, regional or local level of a Party;

Natural person of a Party means a national of a Party according to its legislation and who reside in the territory of that Party;

Service provider of a Party means a person of a Party that intends to supply or provide a service;

Computer reservation system services means services provided by systems computerized information that contains information about the schedules of air carriers, the available places, rates and charging rules, through which they can be made reservations or issuing tickets;

Services provided in the exercise of governmental authority means, for each Party, any service that is not provided under commercial or competitive conditions with one or more service providers, and Sale and marketing of air transportation services means the opportunities for air carrier interested in selling and freely marketing their air transport services, including all aspects of marketing, such as market research, advertising and distribution. These activities do not include the pricing of the services of Air transport or applicable conditions.

Article 6.2. Scope of Application

1. This Chapter shall apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party that affect to cross-border trade in services provided by service providers of the other Part. Such measures include measures that affect:

(a) The production, distribution, marketing, sale or supply of a service;

(b) The purchase or use of, or payment for, a service;

(c) Access to services that are offered to the general public by prescription of a Party, and the use thereof, for the provision of a service;

(d) The presence in the territory of the Party, of one service provider of the other Part, and

(e) The granting of a bond or other form of financial guarantee, as a condition for the supply of a service.

2. In addition to paragraph 1, Articles 6.5, 6.8 and 6.11 will also apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party that affect the supply of a service in its territory, through commercial presence.

3. This Chapter will not apply to:

(a) Financial services, as defined in Article XII of the Fifty-fifth Third Additional Protocol to ACE No. 35;

(b) Public contracting, which shall be governed by Chapter 12 (Public Procurement);

(c) Services provided in the exercise of governmental authority, and

(d) Subsidies or donations granted by a Party or a State enterprise, including loans, guarantees and insurance supported by the government;

4. This Chapter will not apply to air services, including transport services national and international air traffic, whether regular or non-scheduled, as well as related services of support to air services, except for the following:

(a) Sale and marketing of air transportation services, and

(b) Computer reservation system services.

5. The Parties recognize the importance of air services to facilitate the expansion of trade, strengthen economic growth and benefit consumers. In consequence, and without prejudice to the provisions of paragraph 4, the Parties will work bilaterally, in order to liberalize air transport, as well as in appropriate forums, such as the Organization of-International Civil Aviation, to reach a multilateral agreement on aerial services of liberal character.

6. In case of any incompatibility between this Chapter and a bilateral, plurilateral or multilateral airline service agreement in which both Parties are parties, the airline services agreement shall prevail to determine the rights and obligations of the Parties.

7. If the Annex on Air Transport Services of the GATS is amended, the Parties jointly review any of the new definitions, in order to align the definitions of this Agreement with those definitions, when appropriate.

For greater certainty, except to the extent that paragraph 1(b) or (c) constitutes an exception to Article 8.11 (Transfers), an investment that enters into an investment contract under DL 600, through Law 18.657, or through any special voluntary investment program, shall be subject to the obligations and commitments of this Chapter to the extent that it is an investment under this Chapter.

Annex III. Chile Transfers

1. Chile reserves the right of the Central Bank of Chile to maintain or adopt measures in accordance with its Organic Constitutional Law (Law No. 18,840) or other legal norms to ensure the stability of the currency and the normal functioning of internal and external payments.

For these purposes, the Central Bank of Chile is empowered to regulate the amount of money and credit in circulation, the execution of credit operations and international changes. It is also empowered to issue rules on monetary, credit, financial and international exchange rates. These measures include, among others, the establishment of requirements restricting or limiting current payments and transfers (capital movements) to or from Chile, as well as the operations related to them, such as establishing that deposits, investments or credits coming from or destined to foreign countries are subject to the obligation of maintaining a legal reserve.

2. In applying measures under this Annex, Chile, as provided for in its legislation, may not discriminate between Brazil and any third country with respect to transactions of the same nature.

3. For greater certainty, this Annex applies to transfers covered by Article 8.11 (Transfers).

The authorities of each Party responsible for financial services are:

(a) For Brazil, the Banco Central do Brasil, and

(b) For Chile, the Ministry of Finance.

Chapter 10. ELECTRONIC COMMERCE

Article 10.1. Definitions

For the purposes of this Chapter:

personal data means any information about an identified or identifiable natural person;

trade administration documents means forms that a Party issues or controls, which have to be completed by or for an importer or exporter in connection with the importation or exportation of goods; advanced electronic signature means data in electronic form attached to an electronic document that makes it possible to identify the signatory or signatory, in accordance with the legal system of each Party; qualified electronic signature means an advanced electronic signature created by a cryptographic device with a high level of security for the creation of electronic signatures and based on a qualified signature certificate, issued through the physical presence of the natural person or legal representatives of the legal person.

computer facilities means computer servers and storage devices for processing or storing information for commercial use; unsolicited commercial electronic message means an electronic message that is sent for commercial or advertising purposes without the consent of the recipients, or against the explicit will of the recipient, using an Internet service or, in accordance with the Party's legal system, by other telecommunications services, and electronic transmission or electronically transmitted means a transmission made using any electromagnetic means, including transmissions by optical means.

Article 10.2. Scope of Application and General Provisions

1. This Chapter shall apply to measures adopted or maintained by a Party affecting trade by electronic means.
2. This Chapter shall not apply to:
 - (a) public procurement;
 - (b) subsidies or concessions provided by a Party, including loans, guarantees and insurance supported by States;
 - (c) information held or processed by or on behalf of a Party, or measures related to such information, including measures related to its compilation, or
 - (d) financial services, as defined in Article XII of the Fifty-third Additional Protocol to ACE No. 35.
3. For greater certainty, this Chapter is subject to the provisions, exceptions or non-conforming measures set forth in other chapters or annexes of this Agreement or in other relevant treaties entered into between the Parties.
4. The Parties recognize the economic potential and opportunities provided by electronic commerce.
5. Considering the potential of electronic commerce as a tool for social and economic development, the Parties recognize the importance of:
 - (a) the clarity, transparency and predictability of their national regulatory frameworks to facilitate, to the extent possible, the development of electronic commerce;
 - (b) encourage the adoption of initiatives that foster innovation and legal certainty, including through private sector self-regulatory measures, to promote confidence in electronic commerce, taking into account the interests and rights of users;
 - (c) interoperability and innovation to facilitate e-commerce;
 - (d) ensure that international and national e-commerce policies take into account the interests of all users, including businesses, consumers, non-governmental organizations and relevant public institutions;
 - (e) facilitate access to digital technologies in order to increase the participation of MSMEs in e-commerce;
 - (f) guaranteeing the security of users of electronic commerce, as well as their right to the protection of personal data, and
 - (g) extend protection with respect to subjects that encourage, intermediate the purchase or offer products or services for consumption.
6. Each Party shall endeavor to adopt measures to facilitate trade conducted by electronic means.
7. The Parties recognize the importance of avoiding barriers that constitute a disguised restriction on trade conducted by electronic means. Taking into account its domestic policy objectives, each Party shall endeavor to avoid measures that:
 - (a) hinder commerce conducted by electronic means, or
 - (b) have the effect of treating trade conducted by electronic means more restrictively than trade conducted by other means.

Article 10.3. Customs Duties

1. Neither Party shall impose customs duties on electronic transmissions between a person of one Party and a person of the other Party.
2. For greater certainty, paragraph 1 shall not prevent a Party from imposing internal taxes, fees or other charges on electronically transmitted content, provided that such taxes, fees or charges are imposed in a manner consistent with this Agreement.

Article 10.4. Principle of Non-Discrimination

The Parties recognize that there is an important debate in international fora, such as the WTO, on the application of non-discriminatory treatment in trade conducted by electronic means. Accordingly, the Parties undertake to jointly evaluate the results of the discussions in these international fora in order to decide on the eventual incorporation into this Chapter of rules on non-discrimination of electronically transmitted content.

Article 10.5. Legal Framework for Electronic Transactions

1. Each Party shall maintain a legal framework governing electronic transactions that is compatible with internationally recognized instruments.
2. Each Party shall endeavor to:
 - (a) avoid regulatory burdens that constitute disguised restrictions on electronic transactions, and
 - (b) facilitate the opinions of interested parties in the development of its legal framework for electronic transactions.

Article 10.6. Advanced or Qualified Electronic Signatures

1. A Party shall not deny the legal validity of an advanced or qualified electronic signature, according to the legal system of each Party, solely on the basis that it is made by electronic means, unless otherwise expressly provided for in its respective legal system.
2. No Party shall adopt or maintain advanced or qualified electronic signature measures that:
 - (a) prohibit the parties to an electronic transaction from mutually determining the appropriate signature certification methods for that transaction, or
 - (b) prevent the parties to an electronic transaction from having the opportunity to prove, before judicial or administrative authorities, that their transaction complies with any legal requirements regarding the signature.
3. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2, a Party may require that, for a particular category of transactions, the firm meet certain standards of performance or is certified by an accredited authority in accordance with its legal system.
4. The Parties shall encourage the use of interoperable electronic signatures.

Article 10.7. Online Consumer Protection

1. The Parties recognize the importance of adopting and maintaining transparent and effective measures to protect consumers from fraudulent and deceptive business practices when engaging in electronic commerce.
2. Each Party shall adopt or maintain consumer protection laws to prohibit fraudulent and deceptive business practices that cause harm or potential harm to consumers engaged in online commercial activities.
3. Each Party shall endeavor to adopt non-discriminatory practices in protecting users of electronic commerce from breaches of personal data protection occurring within its jurisdiction.
4. The Parties recognize the importance of cooperation between their respective consumer protection agencies or other competent bodies, in activities related to cross-border electronic commerce, in order to improve consumer welfare, including with a view to the progressive creation of online dispute resolution mechanisms for the protection of consumers and other aspects of consumer relations, to the extent that the legal, material and institutional feasibility exists for their development.
5. The Parties recognize the importance of adopting or maintaining measures to ensure that products marketed through electronic commerce are safe and do not pose a risk to the health and safety of consumers, including through adequate disclosure of precautionary measures for the safe use of these products by consumers.
6. Each Party shall adopt or maintain measures to ensure to customers, prior to the purchase of goods by electronic means, clear and timely information on:
 - (a) the conditions of delivery of the good or service, including the customs clearance process;
 - (b) the consequent possibility of delaying the delivery time;

- (c) total prices and fees payable, including possible subsequent payments associated with the import;
- (d) conditions of withdrawal, applicable legal warranty and conditions, and
- (e) the supplier's contact details.

Article 10.8. Protection of Personal Data

1. The Parties recognize the benefits of ensuring the protection of the personal data of users of electronic commerce and the contribution this makes to enhancing trust and confidence of the consumer in e-commerce.
2. The Parties shall adopt or maintain laws and regulations for the protection of personal data of users participating in electronic commerce.
3. Each Party shall make efforts to ensure that its legal framework for the protection of personal data of users of electronic commerce is applied in a non-discriminatory manner.
4. Each Party shall publish information on the protection of personal data it provides to users of electronic commerce.
5. The Parties shall exchange information and experiences regarding their personal data protection legislation.
6. The Parties shall encourage the use of security mechanisms for users' personal data, and their anonymization, in case such data is provided to third parties, in accordance with the applicable legislation.

Article 10.9. Paperless Trade Administration

Each Party shall endeavor to:

- (a) making trade administration documents available to the public in electronic form, and
- (b) accept electronically submitted trade administration documents as the legal equivalent of the paper version of those documents.

Article 10.10. Principles on Access to and Use of the Internet for Electronic Commerce

Subject to applicable policies, laws and regulations, the Parties recognize the benefits of consumers in their territories having the ability to:

- (a) access and use the services and applications of the consumer's choice available on the Internet, subject to reasonable administration of the network. For greater certainty, in the case of Brazil the term "reasonable" shall be interpreted as "transparent, non-discriminatory and proportional", in accordance with Law No. 12,965/2014;
- (b) connect end-user devices of the consumer's choice to the Internet, provided that such devices do not harm the network, and
- (c) to provide clear information on the network management practices of users by data transport providers, so that such users can make the consumption decision that best satisfies them.

Article 10.11. Cooperation on Cybersecurity Issues

The Parties recognize the importance of developing:

- (a) the capabilities of their national entities responsible for cybersecurity and cyber security incident response;
- (b) collaborative mechanisms to cooperate in identifying and mitigating malicious practices or the dissemination of malicious code affecting the Parties' electronic networks, users' personal data or protection against unauthorized access to private information or communications; and
- (c) collaboration mechanisms to cooperate in the identification and mitigation of criminal practices such as pedophilia, drug trafficking and apology for other crimes.

Article 10.12. Cross-Border Transfer of Information by Electronic Means

1. The Parties recognize that each Party may have its own regulatory requirements on the transfer of information by electronic means.
2. Each Party shall permit the cross-border transfer of information by electronic means, where such activity is for the conduct of the business of a person of a Party.
3. Nothing in this Article shall prevent a Party from adopting or maintaining measures inconsistent with paragraph 2 to pursue a legitimate public policy objective, provided that the measure is not applied in a manner that would constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination or a disguised restriction on trade.

Article 10.13. Location of Computer Facilities

1. The Parties recognize that each Party may have its own regulatory requirements relating to the use of computer facilities, including requirements that seek to ensure the security and confidentiality of communications.
2. A Party may not require a person of the other Party to use or locate computer facilities in the territory of that Party as a condition of doing business in that territory.
3. Nothing in this Article shall prevent a Party from adopting or maintaining measures inconsistent with paragraph 2 to pursue a legitimate public policy objective, provided that the measure is not applied in a manner that would constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination or a disguised restriction on trade.

Article 10.14. Unsolicited Electronic Commercial Communications

1. Each Party shall adopt or maintain measures regarding unsolicited commercial electronic communications that:
 - (a) require providers of unsolicited commercial electronic communications to facilitate the ability of recipients to prevent the continued receipt of such messages; or
 - (b) require the consent of the recipients, as specified in accordance with the laws and regulations of each Party, to receive commercial electronic communications.
2. Each Party shall provide tools against providers of unsolicited commercial electronic communications that do not comply with the measures adopted or maintained pursuant to paragraph 1.
3. The Parties shall endeavor to cooperate in appropriate cases of mutual interest relating to the regulation of unsolicited commercial electronic messages.

Article 10.15. Cooperation

Recognizing the global nature of electronic commerce, the Parties shall endeavor to:

- (a) working together to facilitate the use of e-commerce by MSMEs and the incorporation of women in e-commerce;
- (b) share information and experiences on laws, regulations and programs in the sphere of electronic commerce, including those related to personal data protection, consumer protection, security in electronic communications and electronic signatures, intellectual property rights, and e-government;
- (c) exchange information and share views on consumer access to products and services offered online between the Parties;
- (d) actively participate in regional and multilateral fora to promote the development of electronic commerce, and
- (e) Encourage the development by the private sector of additional methods of self-regulation to promote electronic commerce, including codes of conduct, model contracts, guidelines and compliance mechanisms for the protection of consumers' personal data.

Article 10.16. Relationship to other Chapters

In the event of any inconsistency between this Chapter and another chapter of this Agreement, the other chapter shall prevail to the extent of the inconsistency.

Chapter 11. TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Article 11.1. Definitions

For the purposes of this Chapter:

leased circuits means telecommunications facilities between two or more designated points that are intended for the dedicated use or availability to a particular customer or to other users chosen by that customer;

co-location means access to and use of physical space for the purpose of installing, maintaining or repairing equipment on premises owned or controlled and used by a major supplier for the provision of telecommunications services; network element means a facility or equipment used in the provision of a telecommunications service, including the features, functions and capabilities that are provided through such facilities or equipment; essential facilities means facilities of a public telecommunications network and service that:

(a) are supplied exclusively or predominantly by a single or limited number of suppliers, and

(b) it is not economically or technically feasible to replace them for the purpose of providing a service;

interconnection means the linking of providers supplying telecommunications services for the purpose of enabling users of one provider to communicate with users of another provider and to access services supplied by another provider; non-discriminatory means treatment no less favorable than that accorded, in like circumstances, to any other user of similar telecommunications services; reference interconnection offer means an interconnection offer offered by a major supplier and registered with or approved by the telecommunications regulatory body that is sufficiently detailed to enable telecommunications service providers who wish to accept such rates, terms and conditions to obtain interconnection without having to engage in negotiations with the supplier in question; standard interconnection offer means an interconnection offer offered by a major supplier that is sufficiently detailed to enable public telecommunications service providers willing to accept such rates, terms and conditions to obtain interconnection without having to engage in negotiations with the supplier in question; telecommunications regulatory body means the body or bodies of the other Party responsible for telecommunications regulation; cost-oriented means cost-based, and may include reasonable profitability and involve different costing methodologies for different facilities or services;

major supplier means a supplier of telecommunications services that has the ability to significantly affect the conditions of participation (from a pricing and supply point of view) in a relevant market for telecommunications services, as a result of:

(a) the control of essential facilities, or

(b) utilization of its position in the market;

public telecommunications network means the telecommunications infrastructure used to provide telecommunications services; international roaming means a commercial mobile service provided pursuant to a commercial agreement between telecommunications service providers that allows users to use their local cell phone or other device for voice, data or text messaging services while temporarily outside the territory in which the user's home network is located; telecommunications service means any telecommunications service that a Party provides, explicitly or in fact, to be offered to the general public. Such services may include, but are not limited to, telephony, data transmission and intermediate services that typically incorporate customer-supplied information between two or more points without any end-to-end change in the form or content of such information;

Intermediate telecommunications services are those services provided by third parties, through facilities and networks, aimed at meeting the needs of those who hold an enabling title; tariff means either tariff or price, according to the domestic legislation of each Party; telecommunications means any transmission, emission or reception of signs, signals, writings, images, sounds and information of any nature, by physical line, radio-electricity, optical means or other electromagnetic systems; and user means an end consumer or a subscriber of a public telecommunications service, including a service provider, except a supplier of public telecommunications services.

Article 11.2. Scope of Application

1. This Chapter applies to:

- (a) measures related to access to and use of public networks and telecommunications services;
- (b) measures related to the obligations of telecommunications service providers, and
- (c) telecommunications otras medidas relacionadas con las redes públicas y los services.

2. This Chapter does not apply to measures relating to radio or television broadcasting and cable distribution of radio or television programming, except to ensure that enterprises providing such services have continued access to and use of public networks and telecommunications services in accordance with Article 11.3.

3. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to mean:

- (a) oblige a Party to require any enterprise to establish, construct, acquire, lease, operate or supply telecommunications networks or services, when such networks or services are not offered to the general public;
- (b) oblige a Party to require any enterprise, engaged exclusively in the broadcasting or cable distribution of radio or television programming, to make its cable distribution or broadcasting facilities available as a public telecommunications network, or
- (c) to allow persons operating private networks to use them to provide telecommunications services to third parties.

Article 11.3. Access to and Use of Telecommunication Networks and Services

1. Each Party shall ensure that the enterprises of the other Party have access to, and may make use of, any telecommunications service offered in its territory or on a cross-border basis, on reasonable and non-discriminatory terms and conditions. This obligation shall be applied, including, inter alia, as specified in paragraphs 2 through 6.

2. Each Party shall ensure that such enterprises are permitted:

- (a) purchase or lease and connect terminals or equipment that interface with public telecommunications networks;
- (b) to provide services to individual or multiple users through owned or leased circuits;
- (c) connect owned or leased circuits with public networks and telecommunication services or with circuits owned or leased by another company, and
- (d) perform switching, routing, signaling, addressing, processing and conversion functions.

3. Each Party shall ensure that enterprises of the other Party may use public telecommunications networks and services to transmit information in its territory or across its borders, and to access information stored or contained in databases in a machine-readable form in the territory of either Party.

4. Notwithstanding paragraph 3, the other Party may take such measures as are necessary to ensure the security and confidentiality of messages, or to protect the privacy of users' personal data, provided that such measures are not applied in a manner that would constitute a means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination or a disguised restriction on trade in services.

5. Each Party shall ensure that no conditions are imposed on access to and use of public telecommunications networks and services other than those necessary to:

- (a) safeguarding the responsibilities of providers of public telecommunications networks and services, in particular their ability to make their networks or services available to the general public; or
- (b) protect the technical integrity of public networks or telecommunications services.

6. Provided that the criteria set forth in paragraph 5 are met, the conditions for access to and use of public telecommunications networks and services may include:

- (a) requirements to use specific technical interfaces, including interface protocols, for interconnection with such networks and services;
- (b) requirements, when necessary, for the interoperability of such networks and services;
- (c) the homologation or approval of terminal equipment or other equipment interfacing with the network and technical requirements related to the connection of such equipment to such networks, and
- (d) notification, registration and granting of authorizations or licenses, as applicable.

Article 11.4. Use of Telecommunication Networks In Emergency Situations

1. Each Party shall endeavor to adopt the necessary measures to ensure that telecommunications companies transmit, at no cost to users, the alert messages defined by its competent authority in emergency situations.
2. Each Party shall encourage telecommunications service providers to protect their networks against serious failures caused by emergency situations, in order to ensure public access to telecommunications services in such situations.
3. The Parties shall endeavor to manage, in a joint and coordinated manner, actions in the field of telecommunications in emergency situations and the planning of resilient networks to mitigate the impact of natural disasters.
4. Each Party shall adopt the necessary measures for mobile telephone service providers to grant the possibility of making calls to the free emergency numbers of that Party to international roaming users of the other Party, in accordance with its national coverage.
5. For purposes of this Article, emergency situations shall be determined by the competent authority of each Party.

Article 11.5. Interconnection between Suppliers

General Terms and Conditions of Interconnection

1. Each Party shall ensure that suppliers of telecommunications services in its territory provide interconnection to suppliers of telecommunications services of the other Party:
 - (a) at any technically feasible point in your network;
 - (b) under non-discriminatory terms, conditions (including technical standards and specifications) and rates;
 - (c) of a quality no less favorable than that provided by such telecommunications service suppliers to their own like services, to like services of non-affiliated service suppliers, or to like services of their subsidiaries or other affiliates;
 - (d) in a timely manner, on terms, conditions (including technical standards and specifications) and cost-oriented tariffs that are transparent, reasonable, taking into account economic feasibility, and sufficiently unbundled so that providers need not pay for network components or facilities that they do not require for the service to be provided. For Brazil, cost orientation is one of the options empowered by its telecommunications regulations, without prejudice to other criteria, and
 - (e) upon request, and if accepted, at points in addition to the network termination points offered to most users, subject to charges reflecting the cost of constructing the necessary additional facilities.
2. In carrying out paragraph 1, each Party shall ensure that suppliers of telecommunications services in its territory take reasonable steps to protect the confidentiality of commercially sensitive information of, or relating to, suppliers and users of telecommunications services, and only use such information to supply those services.

Interconnection Options

3. Each Party shall ensure that telecommunications service suppliers of the other Party may interconnect their facilities and equipment with those of telecommunications service suppliers in its territory, in accordance with at least one of the following options:
 - (a) a reference interconnection offer containing rates, terms and conditions that telecommunications service providers offer each other;
 - (b) the terms and conditions of an existing interconnection agreement, or

(c) the negotiation of a new interconnection agreement.

Public Availability of Interconnection Negotiation Procedures

4. Each Party shall make publicly available the procedures applicable to interconnection negotiations with suppliers of telecommunications services in its territory.

Public Availability of Rates, Terms and Conditions Necessary for Interconnection

5. Each Party shall provide the means for telecommunications service suppliers of the other Party to obtain the necessary rates, terms and conditions for interconnection offered by a telecommunications service supplier, in accordance with each Party's legal system. Such means include, at a minimum, ensuring:

(a) the public availability of rates, terms and conditions for interconnection with a telecommunications service provider established by the telecommunications regulatory body or other competent body, or

(b) the public availability of the reference interconnection offer.

Article 11.6: Shared Internet Interconnection Charges

The Parties recognize that a provider seeking international Internet interconnection should be able to negotiate with the other Party's providers on a commercial basis. Such negotiations may include negotiations on compensation for the establishment, operation and maintenance of the respective providers' facilities.

Article 11.7. Portability

Each Party shall ensure that telecommunications service suppliers in its territory provide portability in those services provided for in its domestic law, in a timely manner, and on reasonable and non-discriminatory terms and conditions.

Article 11.8. Damaged, Stolen or Lost Mobile Terminal Equipment

1. Each Party shall establish procedures that allow telecommunications service providers established in its territory to exchange and block in their networks the IMEI (International Mobile Equipment Identity) codes or other similar codes of mobile terminal equipment reported in the territory of another Party as stolen, misplaced or lost, or to implement mechanisms that inhibit or prevent the use of mobile terminal equipment with cloned or adulterated IMEIs.

2. The procedures referred to in paragraph 1 shall include the use of such databases as the Parties may agree for that purpose.

Article 11.9. Internet Traffic

The Parties shall endeavor to:

(a) to promote the interconnection within the territory of each Party of all Internet Service Providers (ISPs), through new Internet Exchange Points (Internet Exchange Points or "ITPs"), as well as to promote interconnection between the ITPs of the Parties;

(b) adopt or maintain measures to ensure that public works projects include mechanisms to facilitate the deployment of fiber optic or other telecommunications networks. For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "public works" shall be understood in accordance with the legislation of each Party;

(c) encouraging the deployment of telecommunications networks that connect users to the main centers of Internet content generation worldwide, and

(d) adopt policies that encourage the installation of Internet content generation centers and distribution networks in their respective territories.

Article 11.10. Universal Service

Each Party has the right to define the type of universal service obligations it wishes to adopt or maintain and shall administer such obligations in a transparent, non-discriminatory, and competitively neutral manner, and shall ensure that universal service obligations are no more burdensome than necessary for the type of universal service that has been defined.

Article 11.11. Network Neutrality

In order to guarantee a free and competitive market for Internet content, the Parties undertake to study mechanisms to give effect to the principle of net neutrality in their domestic legislation, so as to prevent certain content or applications from being discriminated against in favor of others.

Article 11.12. Competitive Safeguards

1. Each Party shall maintain appropriate measures with the objective of preventing suppliers, individually or jointly, from employing or continuing to employ anti-competitive practices.

2. The anticompetitive practices referred to in paragraph 1 include, in particular:

(a) employ anti-competitive cross-subsidies;

(b) using information obtained from competitors with anticompetitive results, and

(c) failure to make available in a timely manner to other suppliers of public telecommunications services, technical information on essential facilities and commercially relevant information needed by them to supply public telecommunications services.

Article 11.13. Treatment of Significant Suppliers

Each Party shall ensure that major suppliers in its territory accord to telecommunications service suppliers of the other Party treatment no less favorable than that accorded by such major suppliers, in like circumstances, to their subsidiaries, their affiliates or non-affiliated service suppliers, with respect to:

(a) the availability, supply, rates or quality of similar telecommunications services; and

(b) the availability of technical interfaces necessary for interconnection.

Article 11.14. Resale

1. Each Party, in accordance with its domestic legislation, shall ensure that major suppliers in its territory:

(a) offer for resale, at reasonable rates, to telecommunications service suppliers of the other Party, telecommunications services that such major suppliers supply at retail to end-users, and

(b) do not impose discriminatory or unjustified conditions or limitations on the resale of such services.

2. A Party may determine reasonable rates through any methodology it deems appropriate.

3. A Party may prohibit a reseller that obtains, at wholesale rates, a public telecommunications service that is available at the retail level only to a limited category of users from offering such service to a different category of user.

Article 11.15. Disaggregation of Network Elements

1. Each Party shall give its telecommunications regulatory body the authority to require that major suppliers in its territory provide to telecommunications service suppliers of the other Party access to network elements on an unbundled basis on terms, conditions and rates that are cost-oriented, reasonable, non-discriminatory and transparent. For Brazil, cost orientation is one of the options allowed by its telecommunications regulations, without prejudice to other criteria.

2. Each Party may determine the network elements required to be available in its territory and the providers that may obtain such elements, in accordance with its legal system.

Article 11.16. Supply and Pricing of Leased Circuits

1. Each Party shall ensure that major suppliers in its territory supply leased circuits to enterprises of the other Party on terms, conditions and rates that are reasonable and non-discriminatory.

2. For purposes of paragraph 1, each Party shall give its telecommunications regulatory body the authority to require major suppliers in its territory to offer leased circuits to the other Party's companies at capacity-based, cost-oriented prices. For Brazil, cost orientation is one of the options allowed by its telecommunications regulations, without prejudice to other criteria.

Article 11.17. Co-location

1. Each Party shall ensure that major suppliers in its territory provide to telecommunications service suppliers of the other Party the physical co-location of equipment necessary to interconnect or access unbundled network elements on terms, conditions and rates that are cost-oriented, reasonable, non-discriminatory and based on generally available supply. For Brazil, cost orientation is one of the options allowed by its telecommunications regulations, without prejudice to other criteria.

2. Where physical co-location is not practicable for technical reasons or due to space limitations, each Party shall ensure that major suppliers in its territory provide an alternative solution, such as facilitating virtual co-location, on terms, conditions and cost-oriented tariffs that are reasonable, non-discriminatory and based on a generally available offer. For Brazil, cost orientation is one of the options allowed by its telecommunications regulations, without prejudice to other criteria.

3. Each Party may determine, in accordance with its legal system, the facilities subject to paragraphs 1 and 2.

Article 11.18. Access to Poles, Ducts, Pipelines and Rights-of-Way

Each Party shall ensure that major suppliers in its territory provide access to its owned or controlled poles, ducts, conduits and rights-of-way by such major suppliers to suppliers of public telecommunications services of the other Party on terms, conditions and rates that are reasonable and non-discriminatory.

Article 11.19. Independent Regulatory Bodies

1. Each Party shall ensure that its telecommunications regulatory body is independent and separate from, and not accountable to, any supplier of public telecommunications services. For these purposes, each Party shall ensure that its telecommunications regulatory body has no financial interest in, and no operational role in, any supplier of telecommunications services.

2. Each Party shall ensure that the decisions and procedures of its telecommunications regulatory body are impartial with respect to all market participants. For these purposes, each Party shall ensure that any financial interest it has in a telecommunications service supplier does not influence the decisions and procedures of its telecommunications regulatory body.

3. Neither Party shall accord to a supplier of telecommunications services treatment more favorable than that accorded to a like supplier of the other Party on the ground that the supplier receiving the more favorable treatment is owned in whole or in part by the national government of either Party.

Article 11.20. Mutual and Technical Cooperation

The regulatory agencies of the Parties shall cooperate in:

- (a) the exchange of experiences and information on telecommunications policy, regulation and standards;
- (b) the promotion of training opportunities by the competent telecommunication authorities for the development of specialized skills;
- (c) coordinating and seeking common positions, to the extent possible, in the various international organizations in which they participate, and
- (d) the exchange of information on strategies to enable access to telecommunications services in rural areas and priority attention zones established by each Party.

Article 11.21. Authorizations or Licenses

1. Where a Party requires an authorization or license, as appropriate, from a telecommunications service supplier, it shall make such authorization or license publicly available:

- (a) the criteria and procedures applicable to the granting thereof;

(b) the period of time normally required to make a decision on such a request, and

(c) the terms and conditions of any authorization it has issued.

2. Each Party shall ensure that, upon request, an applicant receives the reasons for the denial of a qualification.

Article 11.22. Allocation, Allocation and Use of Scarce Resources

1. Each Party shall administer its procedures for the allocation, assignment and use of scarce telecommunications resources including frequencies, numbers and rights-of-way in an objective, timely, transparent and non-discriminatory manner, except those related to governmental uses.

2. Each Party shall make available to the public the current status of allocated frequency bands, but shall not be required to provide detailed identification of frequencies allocated for specific governmental uses.

3. Measures of the other Party relating to spectrum allocation and assignment and frequency management do not per se constitute measures inconsistent with Article 6.5 (Market Access), which applies to cross-border trade in services under Article 11.2. Accordingly, each Party retains the right to establish and apply its spectrum and frequency management policies, which may have the effect of limiting the number of suppliers of telecommunications services, provided that this is done in a manner consistent with this Agreement. Each Party also retains the right to allocate and assign frequency bands taking into account present and future needs and spectrum availability.

4. When assigning spectrum for non-government telecommunications services, each Party shall endeavor to rely on an open and transparent public process that considers the public interest. Each Party shall endeavor to rely, in general, on market-based approaches in assigning spectrum for terrestrial non-government telecommunications services.

Article 11.23. Transparency

Each Party shall ensure that:

(a) the regulation of the telecommunications regulatory body, including the considerations for such regulation, be promptly published or made available to the public;

(b) interested persons are afforded, to the extent possible, by public notice, with adequate advance notice, the opportunity to comment on any regulation proposed by the telecommunications regulatory body;

(c) user fees are made available to the public, and

(d) measures relating to public telecommunications networks and services are made available to the public, including measures relating to:

(i) rates and other terms and conditions of service;

(ii) specifications of the technical interfaces;

(iii) the conditions for the connection of terminal equipment or any other equipment to the public telecommunications network;

(iv) notification requirements or authorizations, if any;

(v) standardization or standards affecting access and use, and

(vi) the procedures related to the resolution of telecommunication disputes referred to in Article 11.28.

Article 11.24. Quality of Service

1. Each Party shall establish measures to regulate, monitor and control the quality of telecommunications services with the indicators, parameters and procedures established by its telecommunications regulatory body.

2. Each Party shall ensure that, to the extent information is available, users have access to telecommunications service quality indicators.

3. Each Party shall provide, at the request of another Party, the methodology used for the calculation or measurement of the quality of service indicators, as well as the goals that have been defined for their compliance, in accordance with its domestic legislation.

Article 11.25. International Roaming

1. Within one (1) year from the entry into force of this Agreement, the international roaming service between service suppliers providing mobile telephony telecommunications and mobile data transmission services under this Chapter shall be governed by the following provisions.
2. The suppliers referred to in paragraph 1 shall apply to their users who use international roaming services in the territory of the other Party, the same rates or prices that they charge for mobile services in their own country, according to the modality contracted by each user.
3. Therefore, such rates or prices shall be applied to the following cases:
 - (a) when a user of a provider in Brazil is in Chile and originates voice and messaging communications to Brazil or Chile and receives voice and messaging communications from Chile or Brazil;
 - (b) when a user of a provider in Chile is located in Brazil and originates voice and messaging communications to Chile or Brazil and receives voice and messaging communications from Chile or Brazil;
 - (c) when a user of a provider of one Party accesses data services (Internet access) while roaming internationally in the territory of the other Party.
4. Each Party shall adopt or maintain measures to:
 - (a) ensure that the information on tariffs or retail prices referred to in paragraph 2 is easily accessible to the public;
 - (b) minimize impediments or barriers to the use of technological alternatives to international roaming, allowing users of the other Party, visiting its territory, to access telecommunications services using the devices of their choice, and
 - (c) implement mechanisms whereby telecommunications service providers allow international roaming users to control their data, voice and text message (Short Message Service, or "SMS") consumption.
5. Each Party shall ensure that its providers offer international roaming users regulated by this Article the same quality of service as its domestic users.
6. The Parties shall monitor compliance with the provisions of this Article, in accordance with their domestic legislation.
7. The Undersecretariat of Telecommunications, or its successor, for the Republic of Chile and the Agência Nacional de Telecomunicações (ANATEL), or its successor, for the Federative Republic of Brazil, shall coordinate the simultaneous implementation of this Article.

Article 11.26. Flexibility In the Choice of Technologies

1. No Party may prevent telecommunications service suppliers from having the flexibility to choose the technologies they wish to use for the supply of their services, subject to the requirements necessary to satisfy legitimate public policy interests.
2. When a Party finances the development of advanced networks, it may condition its financing on the use of technologies that meet its specific public policy interests.

Article 11.27. Protection of Users of Telecommunication Services

The Parties shall guarantee the following rights to users of telecommunications services:

- (a) to obtain the supply of telecommunication services in accordance with the quality parameters contracted or established by the competent authority, and
- (b) in the case of persons with disabilities, to obtain information on the rights they enjoy. The Parties shall use the means available for this purpose.

Article 11.28. Telecommunication Dispute Resolution

Each Party shall ensure that:

Resources

(a) the enterprises of the other Party may have recourse to the telecommunications regulatory body or other competent body to resolve disputes relating to domestic measures relating to the matters dealt with in this Chapter;

(b) suppliers of telecommunications services of another Party that have requested interconnection from a supplier in the territory of the Party may apply to the telecommunications regulatory body or other competent body, within a specific reasonable and public time period following the supplier's request for interconnection, to resolve disputes regarding the terms, conditions and rates for interconnection with such supplier;

Reconsideration

(c) any enterprise that is aggrieved or whose interests are adversely affected by a determination or decision of the national telecommunications regulatory body may petition such body to reconsider such determination or decision. No Party shall allow such a request to be a basis for non-compliance with the determination or decision of the telecommunications regulatory body, unless a competent authority suspends such determination or decision. A Party may limit the circumstances in which reconsideration is available, in accordance with its legal system;

Judicial Review

(d) any enterprise that is aggrieved or whose interests have been adversely affected by a resolution or decision of the national telecommunications regulatory body may obtain a judicial review of such resolution or decision by an independent judicial authority. An application for judicial review shall not constitute grounds for non-compliance with such resolution or decision, unless stayed by the competent judicial body.

Article 11.29. Relationship to other Chapters

Chapter 12. Public Procurement

Article 12.1. Definitions

For the purposes of this Chapter:

common goods and services means goods and services of simple and objective specification whose performance and quality standards, for example, can be defined in the bidding documents by means of the usual market specifications, which leads to less effort in the preparation of bids;

special compensatory conditions means any conditions or commitments that promote local development or improve the balance of payments accounts of a Party, such as local content requirements, technology licensing, investment requirements, compensatory trade or similar measures or requirements;

direct contracting means a method of procurement in which the procuring entity contacts directly a supplier or suppliers of its choice; contracting entity means an entity of a Party listed in Annex I; written or in writing means any expression in words or numbers that can be read, reproduced and subsequently communicated. It may include information transmitted and stored electronically; technical specification means a bidding requirement that:

(a) establish the characteristics of:

(i) the goods to be acquired, including quality, performance, safety and dimensions, or the processes and methods for their production, or

(ii) services to be contracted or the processes or methods for their provision, including any applicable administrative provisions, or

(b) understands the terminology, symbols, packaging, marking and labeling requirements as they apply to the good or service, or

(c) establishes conformity assessment procedures prescribed by a contracting entity; open bidding means a procurement method in which all interested suppliers may submit a bid; selective bidding means a method of procurement in which only suppliers that satisfy the conditions for participation are invited by the procuring entity to submit proposals; multiple-use list means the list of suppliers that the procuring entity has determined satisfy the conditions for participation in that list and that the procuring entity intends to use more than once; measure means any law, regulation, guideline, administrative procedure or act, requirement or practice relating to covered procurement; person means a natural person or a legal entity;

natural person of the other Party means a natural person who is a national of the other Party or who, under the law of the other Party, has the right of permanent residence in that other Party; legal entity means any legal entity duly organized or otherwise organized under applicable law, whether or not for profit and whether privately or publicly owned, including any corporation, trust, partnership, joint venture, sole proprietorship or association;

legal person of the other Party means a legal person that is constituted or otherwise organized under the law of the other Party and that, in the case of the supply of a service, is engaged in substantive business operations in the territory of that Party; supplier means a person who provides or could provide goods or services to a procuring entity; services include construction services, unless otherwise specified;

construction service means a service the purpose of which is the performance, by whatever means, of a civil engineering or construction work, on the basis of division 51 of the United Nations Provisional Central Product Classification;

Article 12.2. Scope and Coverage

Scope of Application

1. This Chapter applies to any measure adopted by the Parties relating to covered procurement.

2. For purposes of this Chapter, covered procurement is defined as the procurement of goods, services, or any combination thereof, as specified by each Party in Annex I:

(a) that is not intended for commercial sale or resale, or as an input in the production or supply of goods or services for the same purpose;

(b) The Company's financial statements are prepared in accordance with the provisions of the Mexican Securities Market Law and are presented in accordance with the provisions of the Mexican Securities Market Law and the Mexican Securities Market Law;

(c) whose value is equal to or greater than the relevant threshold value specified for each Party in Annex I;

(d) by a contracting entity listed in Annex I, and

(e) that is not otherwise excluded from the scope of this Chapter.

Exclusions

3. Except as otherwise provided, this Chapter does not apply to:

(a) the acquisition or lease of land, existing buildings or other real estate or rights to such property;

(b) non-contractual arrangements, or any form of assistance provided by a Party, including cooperation agreements, grants, loans, subsidies, equity contributions, guarantees, warranties, guarantees and tax incentives;

(c) the contracting or procurement of fiscal agency services or depository services, settlement and management services for regulated financial institutions, nor services related to the sale, redemption and distribution of public debt, including loans and bonds, notes, and other public securities. For greater certainty, this Chapter does not apply to government procurement of banking, financial or specialized services relating to public borrowing or public debt management activities;

(d) public employment contracts and related measures;

(e) procurement by a procuring entity or enterprise of a Party from another procuring entity or government enterprise of the same Party;

(f) financial services;

(g) the contracting performed:

(i) for the specific purpose of providing international assistance, including development aid;

(ii) in accordance with a particular procedure or condition of an international agreement relating to:

(A) the settlement of troops;

(B) the joint execution of a project of the signatory countries of such agreement, or

(C) in accordance with the particular procedures or conditions of an international organization, or financed by donations, loans or other forms of international assistance, when the applicable procedure or condition is incompatible with this Chapter.

Valuation

4. In calculating the value of a procurement with a view to determining whether it is a covered procurement, the procuring entity shall include the total estimated maximum value for the full term of the procurement taking into consideration:

(a) all forms of remuneration, including any bonus, fee, commission, interest or other source of income that may be established under the contract;

(b) the value of any option clause, and

(c) any contract awarded at the same time or during a given period to one or more suppliers under the same procurement.

5. If, due to the nature of the contract, its value cannot be calculated in advance in accordance with the preceding paragraph, the contracting entities shall make an estimate of such value based on objective criteria.

6. In calculating the value of a procurement, a procuring entity shall not break the procurement into separate procurements, nor shall it select or use a special valuation method to calculate the value of the procurement with the intent to exclude it in whole or in part from the application of this Chapter.

Article 12.3. General Exceptions

1. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from taking measures or prohibit it from withholding information that it considers necessary to protect its essential security interests, such as procurement of arms, ammunition or war material, or any other procurement indispensable for national defense or security purposes.

2. Provided that they do not constitute disguised restrictions on international trade or means of arbitrary or unjustifiable discrimination between the Parties, nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to prevent a Party from adopting or applying measures:

(a) necessary to protect public morals, order or safety;

(b) necessary to protect human, animal or plant life or health, including the respective environmental measures;

(c) necessary to protect intellectual property, or

(d) related to the goods or services of handicapped persons, charitable institutions or prison labor.

Article 12.4. General Principles

National Treatment and Non-Discrimination

1. With respect to any measure relating to government procurement covered by this Chapter, each Party, including its procuring entities, shall accord, immediately and unconditionally, to goods and services of the other Party and to suppliers of the other Party offering goods or services of either Party, treatment no less favorable than the most favorable treatment that such Party accords to its own goods, services and suppliers offering such goods and services.

2. With respect to any measure relating to government procurement covered by this Chapter, no Party, including its procuring entities, may:

(a) treat a locally established supplier less favorably than another locally established supplier because of its degree of foreign affiliation or ownership, or

(b) discriminate against a locally established supplier on the basis that the goods or services offered by such supplier for procurement are goods or services of the other Party.

3. The treatment provided for in paragraphs 1 and 2 does not apply to:

(a) customs duties, including tariffs or other charges of any kind imposed on or in connection with importation; the method of collection of such duties and charges; or other import regulations, or

(b) measures affecting trade in services, other than measures specifically regulating government procurement covered by this Chapter.

Special Compensatory Conditions

4. With respect to a covered procurement, no Party, including its procuring entities, may consider, request or impose any special countervailing condition at any stage of a procurement.

Use of Electronic Media

5. The Parties shall endeavor to provide information regarding future procurement opportunities through electronic means.

6. The Parties shall, to the extent possible, encourage electronic bidding for the delivery of procurement documents and the receipt of bids.

7. In procedures carried out by electronic means, the public administration may determine, as a condition of validity and effectiveness, that suppliers execute their actions and attach all documentation, including their bids, in electronic format.

8. When covered procurement is carried out through electronic means, each Party:

(a) ensure that procurement is carried out using information technology systems and software, including those related to authentication and cryptographic encryption of information, that are accessible and interoperable with generally accessible information technology systems and software; and

(b) maintain mechanisms to ensure the security and integrity of requests for participation and bids, as well as the determination of the time of their receipt.

Public Policies

9. Nothing in this Chapter shall prevent a Party from developing new procurement policies, procedures or contractual means, provided that they are consistent with the Chapter.

Execution of the contract

10. Procuring entities shall conduct covered procurement in a transparent and impartial manner that avoids conflicts of interest and prevents corrupt practices.

Bidding Procedures

11. In tendering, procuring entities shall, as a general rule, use an open tendering procedure for covered procurement, except where Article 12.12 applies, provided that the other modalities are recognized by both Parties in accordance with their national legislation, in compliance with this Chapter.

Rules of Origin

12. For purposes of the treatment provided for in paragraphs 1 and 2, each Party shall apply to covered government procurement of goods the rules of origin that it applies in the normal course of trade in such goods. For clarity, rules of origin that apply in the normal course of trade are understood to be non-preferential rules of origin, in accordance with Article 1.2 of the WTO Agreement on Rules of Origin.

Denial of Benefits

13. For purposes of the treatment provided for in paragraphs 1 and 2, either Party may deny benefits under this Chapter, after notification and consultations, to service suppliers of the other Party if the service supplier:

- (a) is not a person of the other Party as defined in this Chapter, or
- (b) supplies the service from or in the territory of a non-Party.

Article 12.5. Information on the Procurement System

Each Party shall:

- (a) publish, without delay, any information concerning measures of general application, which specifically regulate a procurement covered by this Chapter, and any modification of such measures, in the same manner as the original publication, in an electronic medium listed in Annex I;
- (b) provide information on judicial and administrative decisions of general application, and
- (c) provide clarifications to the other Party, when requested.

Article 12.6. Public Procurement Notices

1. For each procurement covered by this Chapter, procuring entities shall publish, in advance, a notice inviting interested suppliers to submit tenders in the procurement or, whenever appropriate, applications to participate in the procurement, except as provided in Article 12.4.

2. Each procurement notice shall include at least the following information:

- (a) the description of public procurement;
- (b) the method of procurement to be used;
- (c) any conditions that suppliers must satisfy in order to participate in the procurement, unless this information is included in the procurement documents made available to all interested suppliers at the same time as the notice of intended procurement;
- (d) the name of the contracting entity publishing the notice;
- (e) the address or point of contact where suppliers can obtain all relevant procurement documentation;
- (f) the address and final date for submission of bids;
- (g) the dates of delivery of the goods or services to be contracted or the duration of the contract, unless this information is included in the contracting documents, and
- (h) an indication that the procurement is covered by this Chapter.

3. Procuring entities shall publish procurement notices through means that provide the widest possible non-discriminatory access to interested suppliers of the Parties. Access to such notices shall be available through one of the electronic addresses specified in Annex I during the entire period established for the submission of tenders for the relevant procurement.

Notice of Hiring Plans

4. Each Party shall encourage its procuring entities to publish, in an electronic medium listed in Annex I, as early as practicable in each fiscal year, a notice regarding its future procurement plans. Such notices shall include the subject matter to be procured and the estimated period in which the procurement will be conducted.

Article 12.7. Conditions for Participation In the Bidding Process

1. When a procuring entity requires suppliers to comply with registration, qualification or any other condition for participating in procurement proceedings, the procuring entity shall publish a notice inviting suppliers to apply. The procuring entity shall publish the notice sufficiently in advance to allow interested suppliers sufficient time to prepare and submit their applications, and for the procuring entity to evaluate and make its determinations on the basis of such applications.

2. Each procuring entity shall:

(a) limit the conditions for participation to those that are essential to ensure that the potential supplier has the legal, commercial, technical and financial capacity to comply with the requirements and technical requirements of public procurement, which will be evaluated on the basis of the supplier's overall business activities. For greater certainty, the contracting entities may require suppliers to prove strict compliance with their tax obligations;

(b) base its qualification decisions solely on the conditions for participation that it has specified in advance in the notices or bidding documents; and

(c) recognize as qualified all suppliers of the Parties that meet the conditions for participating in government procurement covered by this Chapter.

3. Procuring entities may establish publicly available standing lists of suppliers qualified to participate in procurement. Where a procuring entity requires suppliers to qualify on such a list in order to participate in procurement, and a supplier that has not yet qualified applies to be placed on the list, the Parties shall use their best efforts to ensure that the procedure for registration on the list is initiated without delay and to enable the supplier to participate in the procurement, provided that the registration procedures can be completed within the deadline for submission of tenders.

4. No procuring entity may impose as a condition for a supplier to participate in a procurement that the supplier has previously been awarded one or more contracts by a procuring entity of that Party or that the supplier has previous work experience in the territory of that Party.

5. A procuring entity shall promptly communicate to any supplier that has applied to qualify its decision as to whether the supplier is qualified. Where a procuring entity rejects an application for qualification or ceases to recognize a supplier as qualified, the procuring entity shall promptly notify any supplier that has applied to qualify of its decision as to whether the supplier is qualified.

If the procuring entity so decides, the procuring entity shall, upon request of the supplier, promptly provide the supplier with a written explanation of the reasons for its decision.

6. Nothing in this Article shall prevent a procuring entity from excluding a supplier from a procurement for reasons such as bankruptcy, liquidation or insolvency, misrepresentation in a procurement proceeding, or significant deficiencies in the performance of an obligation under a prior procurement contract.

Article 12.8. Supplier Qualification

Multiple Use List

1. Parties whose procuring entities use lists or permanent registers of qualified suppliers shall ensure that:

(a) suppliers of the other Party may apply for registration, qualification or qualification under the same conditions as domestic suppliers;

(b) all suppliers who so request are included in such lists or registers as soon as possible and without undue delay, and

(c) all suppliers included in the lists or registers are notified of the temporary suspension or cancellation of such lists or registers or of their removal from such lists or registers.

2. When inclusion in a list or registry of suppliers is required, the objective should be none other than the accreditation of suitability to contract with the State, without hindering the entry of interested parties from the other Party.

3. Registration in one of the Parties for bidders of the other Party shall be carried out through the presentation of equivalent documentation and in accordance with the national legislation of the contracting entity.

4. The Parties shall develop common qualification criteria for mutual recognition of certificates issued by their respective national supplier registries.

5. In accordance with their respective national legislation, the Parties may dispense with consular legalization of documents in procedures relating to government procurement covered by this Chapter.

6. In accordance with their respective national legislation, the Parties may waive the requirement of a translation by a public translator in procedures relating to government procurement covered by this Chapter, when the original documents originate from such Parties.

7. The Parties may require a translation by a certified translator, when this is indispensable in the event of administrative or judicial litigation.

8. The Party that uses a list or registry of suppliers shall ensure that suppliers of the other Party have access to all information relating to the authorized registries and the requirements for access thereto, in order to participate in procurement processes. To this end, the Parties shall detail the current and necessary records used by the other Party, for access to its public procurements.

9. The Parties undertake to adapt their lists or registers of suppliers to ensure access to them by suppliers of the other Party.

Article 12.9. Technical Specifications and Documents

1. No contracting entity shall prepare, adopt or apply technical specifications or require any conformity assessment procedure with the purpose or effect of creating unnecessary obstacles to trade between the Parties.

2. In establishing the technical specifications for the goods or services to be procured, the procuring entity shall, as appropriate:

(a) specify them in terms of performance and functional requirements, rather than descriptive or design characteristics, and

(b) base them on international standards, when applicable, or otherwise on national technical regulations, recognized national standards, or building codes.

3. A procuring entity shall not prescribe technical specifications that require or refer to a trademark or trade name, patent, copyright, design or type, specific origin or producer or supplier, unless there is no sufficiently precise or intelligible way of otherwise describing the procurement requirements, and provided that expressions such as "or equivalent" are included in the procurement documentation.

4. A procuring entity shall not solicit or accept, in a manner that may have the effect of precluding competition, advice that could be used in the preparation or adoption of any technical specification for a specific procurement, from a person who may have a commercial interest in that procurement.

5. For greater certainty, this Article shall not prevent contracting entities from preparing, adopting or applying technical specifications to contribute to the conservation of natural resources or to protect the environment.

Article 12.10. Procurement Documents

1. Procuring entities shall provide suppliers with all necessary information to enable them to prepare and submit appropriate tenders.

2. Procurement documents shall include at a minimum a complete description of the following:

(a) the nature and quantity of goods or services to be contracted or, if the quantity is not known, the estimated quantity and any requirements to be met, including technical specifications, conformity assessment certificates, drawings, designs or instruction manuals;

(b) conditions for supplier participation, including information and documents to be submitted by suppliers in relation to those conditions;

(c) the evaluation criteria to be considered in the award of a contract and, unless price is the sole criterion, the relative importance of such criteria;

(d) the date, time and place of the bid opening;

(e) the date or period for the delivery of the goods or for the supply of the services or the duration of the contract, and

(f) any other terms or conditions, such as payment terms and the manner in which bids are to be submitted.

3. Where a procuring entity does not publish all procurement documents electronically, the procuring entity shall ensure that they are available to any supplier upon request.

4. Where a procuring entity during the course of a procurement modifies the criteria referred to in paragraph 2, it shall transmit such modifications in writing, in accordance with the following:

(a) to all suppliers participating in the procurement at the time of the modification of the criteria, if the identities of such suppliers are known, and otherwise in the same manner as the original information was transmitted, and

(b) with sufficient time to allow such suppliers to modify and resubmit their bids, as appropriate.

5. Procuring entities shall respond promptly to any reasonable request by any supplier for relevant information, provided that the information does not give the supplier an advantage over other suppliers.

Article 12.11. Deadlines

1. Procuring entities shall establish the time limits for the bid submission process in such a way as to give suppliers sufficient time to prepare and submit adequate bids, taking into account the nature and complexity of the procurement.

2. Procuring entities shall allow a minimum period of twenty (20) days between the date on which the notice of intended procurement is published and the final date for the submission of bids.

3. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2, procuring entities may establish a shorter period, but in no case less than ten (10) days when:

(a) the contracting of common goods or services;

(b) it is a second publication, or

(c) for reasons of urgency duly justified by the procuring entity, it is unable to comply with the minimum time limit set forth in paragraph 2.

4. A Party may provide that a procuring entity may reduce by five (5) days the deadline for submitting tenders set forth in paragraph 2 for each of the following circumstances, when:

(a) the notice of future procurement is published electronically;

(b) all procurement documents that are made available to the public by electronic means are published from the date of publication of the procurement notice, or

(c) bids may be received through electronic means by the contracting entity.

5. The application of paragraphs 3 and 4 may not result in the reduction of the time limits set forth in paragraph 2 to less than ten (10) days from the date of publication of the procurement notice.

Article 12.12. Contracting Modalities

Open Bidding

1. Procuring entities shall award contracts through open bidding procedures as a general rule, through which any interested supplier of the Parties may submit a bid.

Selective Bidding

2. Where the law of a Party permits selective tendering, procuring entities shall, for each procurement:

(a) publish a notice inviting suppliers to submit applications to participate in procurement with sufficient advance notice for interested suppliers to prepare and submit applications and for the procuring entity to evaluate and make its determination based on such applications, and

(b) permit all domestic suppliers and all suppliers of the other Party that the procuring entity has determined to be in compliance with the conditions for participation to submit a tender, unless the procuring entity has established in the notice or in the publicly available procurement documents any limitation on the number of suppliers permitted to submit tenders and the criteria for such limitation.

3. Procuring entities that maintain publicly available standing lists of qualified suppliers may select suppliers included in such lists to be invited to submit tenders. Any selection shall provide an equitable opportunity to suppliers included in such lists.

Other Procurement Procedures

4. Provided that procuring entities do not use this provision to improperly avoid competition, to protect their domestic suppliers, or to discriminate against suppliers of the other Party, procuring entities may award procurement contracts by means other than open or selective tendering procedures in any of the following circumstances:

(a) provided that the requirements of the procurement documents are not substantially modified, when:

(i) no bid has been submitted or no supplier has requested to participate;

(ii) no bid that complied with the essential requirements of the bidding documents was submitted or the bids submitted were found to be ineligible;

(iii) no supplier has complied with the conditions of participation, or

(b) when the goods or services can be supplied only by one supplier and there is no reasonable alternative, or substitute goods or service due to any of the following reasons:

(i) the contract is for the realization of a work of art;

(ii) the procurement is related to the protection of patents, copyrights or other exclusive rights, or

(iii) due to the absence of competition for technical reasons;

(c) in the case of additional deliveries of goods or services by the original supplier that are intended to be used as spare parts, extensions or continuity of service of existing equipment, software, services or existing facilities, when the change of supplier would force the procuring entity to purchase goods or services that do not meet the requirements of compatibility with existing equipment, software, services or facilities;

(d) for purchases made in a commodity market;

(e) when a procuring entity procures a prototype or an initial good or service that has been developed at its request, in the course of, and for, a particular contract for research, experimentation, study or original development. When such contracts have been fulfilled, subsequent procurements of such goods or services shall be awarded through open or selective bidding procedures;

(f) when, in the case of public works, additional construction services are required in addition to those originally contracted, which respond to unforeseen circumstances and are strictly necessary for the fulfillment of the objectives of the contract that originated them. However, the total value of contracts awarded for such additional construction services may not exceed 50% of the amount of the main contract;

(g) in the case of a contract for works, services or supplies corresponding to the performance or termination of a contract that should have been terminated or terminated in advance due to lack of performance by the contracting party or other causes;

(h) to the extent strictly necessary, when for reasons of extreme urgency or due to events unforeseen by the procuring entity, and only for goods required to meet the urgent situation and portions of works and services that can be completed within a period of time that justifies the urgency, the goods or services cannot be obtained in time through open or, as appropriate, selective bidding, and the use of such procedures could result in serious prejudice to the procuring entity;

(i) when the contract is awarded to the winner of a design competition, provided that:

(i) the competition has been organized in a manner that is consistent with the principles of this Chapter, in particular with respect to the publication of the notice of the procurement, and

(ii) the participants are graded or evaluated by independent juries or bodies;

(j) when any procuring entity needs to contract for consulting services involving matters of a confidential nature, the disclosure of which could reasonably be expected to compromise confidential government information, cause economic instability or otherwise be contrary to the public interest, or

(k) in contracts with professionals or entities considered, in their field of action, of notorious specialization, derived from the security and confidence derived from previous performance, studies, experience, publications, organization, equipment, technical personnel or other requirements related to their activities, which allow inferring that their work is essentially and indisputably the most adequate for the full satisfaction of the contract, provided that it is reasonably estimated that there are no other suppliers that provide such security and confidence.

5. Procuring entities shall prepare written reports, maintain records or issue administrative acts, all of a public nature, for each procurement contract awarded in accordance with paragraph 4. Such reports, records or administrative acts shall include the name of the procuring entity, the value and nature of the goods or services procured and an indication of the circumstances and conditions justifying the use of procedures other than open or selective tendering.

Article 12.13. Treatment of Bids and Award of Contracts

1. Procuring entities shall receive and open all bids under procedures that ensure equality and fairness among the Parties' suppliers in the procurement process.

The bidders shall be given confidential treatment, at least until the opening of the bids.

2. The contracting entities may, in accordance with their national legislation, declare deserted or reject all bids when appropriate and well-founded.

3. Procuring entities shall require that bids, in order to be considered for award, must:

(a) comply with the requirements of the bidding documents, and

(b) be submitted by a supplier that has satisfied the conditions for participation, which the procuring entity has provided to all participating suppliers.

4. Unless a procuring entity determines that awarding a procurement contract is against the public interest, it shall award the contract to the supplier that the procuring entity has determined to be fully capable of performing the contract and whose bid has been determined to be the most advantageous in terms of the requirements and evaluation criteria set forth in the bidding documents.

5. Procuring entities may not cancel a procurement procedure, nor terminate or modify awarded contracts, for the purpose of evading the obligations of this Chapter.

Article 12.14. Transparency of Procurement Information

1. The Parties shall ensure that their procuring entities provide effective disclosure of the results of public procurement processes.

2. Procuring entities shall make available to all suppliers all information relating to the procurement procedure and, in particular, the grounds for the award and the characteristics relating to the successful bid.

3. After awarding a contract covered by this Chapter, a procuring entity shall promptly publish at least the following information about the award:

(a) the name of the contracting entity;

(b) the description of the goods or services contracted;

(c) the date of the award;

(d) the name of the winning supplier, and

(e) the value of the awarded contract.

4. Procuring entities shall publish this information in the national official journal or other national official publication easily accessible to suppliers and the other Party. The Parties shall endeavor to make this information available to the public through electronic means.

5. Upon request, procuring entities shall provide suppliers whose bid was not selected for award with the reasons for not selecting their bid.

6. Procuring entities may withhold information on the award of the contract in accordance with the national legislation of the respective procuring entity.

Article 12.15. Disclosure of Information

1. Upon request, a Party shall promptly provide any information necessary to determine whether a procurement was conducted fairly, impartially and in accordance with the rules of this Chapter, including information on the characteristics and relative advantages of the favored supplier. In cases where disclosure of the information may prejudice competition in ongoing or future tenders, the Party receiving the information shall not disclose it to any supplier, except with the consent of the other Party.

2. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, a Party, including its procuring entities, shall not provide any particular information to any supplier that may prejudice competition between suppliers.

3. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to require a Party to disseminate confidential information whose disclosure:

(a) prevent compliance with the law;

(b) competition among suppliers;

(c) prejudice the legitimate commercial interests of private persons, including the protection of intellectual property, or

(d) is contrary to the public interest.

Article 12.16. Internal Review Procedures

1. Each Party shall have a timely, effective, transparent and non-discriminatory administrative or judicial review procedure, in accordance with the principle of due process, through which a supplier may submit challenges related to a covered procurement in which the supplier has an interest, alleging a breach of this Chapter.

2. Each Party shall have at least one impartial administrative or judicial authority, independent of its contracting entities, to receive and review the challenges referred to in paragraph 1, and to make appropriate findings and recommendations.

3. Each Party shall ensure that the supplier may appeal the initial decision to an impartial administrative or judicial authority independent of the procuring entity that is the subject of the challenge when a supplier's challenge is initially reviewed by an authority other than those referred to in paragraph 2.

4. Each Party shall provide that the authority established or designated in accordance with paragraph 2 shall have the authority to take, without delay, provisional measures to preserve the opportunity for the supplier to participate in the procurement and to ensure that the Party complies with this Chapter. Such measures may have the effect of suspending the procurement proceedings.

5. Without prejudice to other challenge procedures provided or developed by each Party, each Party shall ensure that the authority established or designated pursuant to paragraph 2 provides at least the following:

(a) a sufficient time period for the supplier to prepare and submit written challenges, which in no case shall be less than ten (10) days from the time the act or omission giving rise to the challenge became known to the supplier or reasonably should have become known to the supplier, and

(b) the delivery, without delay and in writing, of the decisions related to the challenge, with an explanation of the grounds for each decision.

Article 12.17. Modifications and Rectifications of Coverage

1. Where a Party modifies its coverage of government procurement in accordance with this Chapter, that Party:

(a) notify the other Party in writing, and

(b) shall include in the notification a proposal for appropriate compensatory adjustments to the other Party to maintain a level of coverage comparable to that existing prior to the modification.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1(b), a Party need not grant compensatory adjustments where:

(a) the modification in question is a minor modification or a rectification of a purely formal nature, or

(b) the proposed amendment covers a contracting entity over which the Party has effectively eliminated its control or influence.

3. If the other Party does not agree that:

(a) the adjustment proposed in paragraph 1(b) is adequate to maintain a level comparable to the mutually agreed coverage;

(b) the proposed amendment is a minor amendment or a correction pursuant to paragraph 2(a), or

(c) the proposed amendment covers a contracting entity over which the Party has effectively eliminated its control or influence in accordance with paragraph 2(b);

4 The other Party shall object in writing within thirty (30) days from the date of receipt of the notification referred to in paragraph 1, failing which it shall be deemed to have 4 objected.

reached agreement on the proposed adjustment or modification, including for purposes of the dispute settlement mechanism of Chapter 22 (Dispute Settlement).

5. When the Parties reach agreement on the proposed modification, rectification or amendment, including when a Party has not objected within thirty (30) days pursuant to paragraph 4, the Parties shall amend Annex I accordingly.

Article 12.18. Participation of MSMEs

1. The Parties recognize the important contribution that MSMEs can make to economic growth and employment, and the importance of facilitating their participation in public procurement.

2. The Parties also recognize the importance of business alliances between suppliers of the Parties and in particular MSMEs, including joint participation in procurement procedures.

3. Where a Party maintains measures offering preferential treatment for its MSMEs, it shall ensure that such measures, including eligibility criteria, are objective and transparent.

4. The Parties may:

(a) provide information regarding their measures used to assist, promote, encourage or facilitate the participation of MSMEs in public procurement, and

(b) cooperate in the development of mechanisms to provide information to MSMEs on the means to participate in public procurement covered by this Chapter.

5. To facilitate the participation of MSMEs in covered procurement, each Party shall, to the extent possible:

(a) provide information related to public procurement, including definition of MSMEs in an electronic portal;

(b) ensure that procurement documents are available free of charge;

(c) identify MSMEs interested in becoming business partners of other enterprises in the territory of the other Party;

(d) develop databases on MSMEs in its territory for use by contracting entities of the other Party; and

(e) carry out other activities aimed at facilitating the participation of MSMEs in public procurements covered by this Chapter.

Article 12.19. Cooperation

1. The Parties recognize the importance of cooperation as a way to achieve better understanding of their respective government procurement systems, as well as better access to their respective markets, particularly for micro, small and medium-sized suppliers.

2. The Parties shall make their best efforts to cooperate on issues such as:

(a) the exchange of experiences and information, such as regulatory frameworks, best practices and statistics;

(b) the development and use of electronic means of information in public procurement systems;

(c) training and technical assistance to suppliers on access to the public procurement market, and

(d) institutional strengthening for the implementation of the provisions of this Chapter, including the training or education of public officials.

Article 12.20. Joint Committee on Procurement

1. The Parties hereby establish the Joint Committee on Government Procurement (hereinafter referred to as the "Joint Committee"), composed of:

(a) in the case of Brazil, by the Secretary of International Affairs of the Ministry of Planning, Development and Management, or his successor, or the person designated by him, and by the Director of the Department of Regional Economic Integration of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, or his successor, or the person designated by him, and

(b) in the case of Chile, by the Director General of International Economic Relations, or by his successor, or by the person designated by him.

2. The Joint Committee, without prejudice to Article 21.2 (Functions of the Commission):

(a) shall ensure compliance with and correct application of the provisions of this Chapter;

(b) supervise the implementation of this Chapter and evaluate the results achieved in its application, in aspects such as:

(i) the exchange of statistics and other information to assist the Parties in monitoring the implementation and operation of this Chapter;

(ii) the use of the opportunities offered by increased access to public procurement and recommend appropriate activities to the Parties; and access to government procurement opportunities for small business suppliers. To this end, either Party may request from the other Party technical assistance, including training of interested government employees or suppliers in specific elements of each Party's government procurement system.

(c) shall meet, at the request of a Party, to consider proposed measures that it considers may affect compliance with this Chapter or cause nullification or impairment within a period of no more than twenty (20) days from the date of the request, with a view to clarifying the matter. The requesting Party shall deliver the request in writing and shall state the reasons for the request, including identification of the measure at issue and an identification of the legal and factual basis for the request that will permit a proper assessment of the matter;

(d) shall conduct the technical consultations referred to in Article 12.21;

(e) evaluate and follow up on the cooperative activities carried out by the Parties in accordance with this Chapter;

(f) shall consider additional negotiations for the purpose of expanding the coverage of this Chapter at the request of either Party;

(g) monitor the further development of this Chapter; and

(h) consider any matter that may affect the operation of this Chapter.

3. The Joint Committee may:

(a) seek the advice of non-governmental individuals or groups, and

(b) if agreed by the Parties, take any other action in the exercise of its functions.

4. The Joint Committee may establish its own rules of procedure.

5. Communications between the Parties regarding this Chapter shall be carried out through the following focal points:

(a) in the case of Brazil, the Department of Regional Economic Integration of the Ministry of External Relations and the Secretariat of International Affairs of the Ministry of Planning, Development and Management or their successors, and

(b) in the case of Chile, the Directorate of Bilateral Economic Affairs of the Directorate General of International Economic Relations, or its successor.

6. Any changes in the focal points will be communicated through diplomatic channels.

7. The Joint Committee shall meet at least once during the first year of this Agreement and thereafter at the request of either Party at any time, unless the Parties agree otherwise. Sessions of the Joint Committee may be held in person if the Parties so agree in the territory of one of the Parties, or by use of any technological means agreed upon by the Parties. The sessions of the Joint Committee shall be chaired alternately by each Party.

Article 12.21. Technical Consultation

1. The Joint Committee shall conduct technical consultations received from the other Party on the application or interpretation of this Chapter. For these purposes, it shall meet as provided in Article 12.20.7.

2. The requesting Party shall state in its request the reasons for the consultation, and identify the subject matter of the consultation.

3. The Joint Committee shall meet within thirty (30) days of receipt of the request for consultations, or such other period as the Parties may agree.

4. The technical consultations shall be confidential. The Parties shall provide sufficient information to allow a complete analysis of the subject matter of the consultation, and shall make every effort to ensure that, at the request of one of them, specialized personnel with competence in the subject matter participate in the technical consultations.

Article 12.22. Future Negotiations

At the request of either Party, the Parties shall enter into negotiations with a view to extending the coverage of this Chapter on a reciprocal basis, where the other Party grants suppliers of a non-Party, through an international treaty to be concluded after the entry into force of this Agreement, greater access to its government procurement market than that granted to suppliers of the other Party pursuant to this Chapter.

Chapter 13. Competition Policy

Article 13.1. Definitions

For the purposes of this Chapter:

enforcement proceedings means judicial or administrative proceedings following an investigation into an alleged violation of competition laws, and competition advocacy means those actions, other than competition law enforcement actions, undertaken by the competition authority or authorities, to promote competition as defined under the Party's competition laws.

Article 13.2. Objectives

Recognizing that anti-competitive business practices have the potential to distort the proper functioning of markets and undermine the benefits of trade liberalization, the Parties shall seek to adopt appropriate measures to prohibit such conduct, implement policies promoting competition and cooperate on matters covered by this Chapter to help secure the benefits of this Agreement.

Article 13.3. Competition Law and Authorities and Anticompetitive Business Practices

1. Each Party shall adopt or maintain competition laws that prohibit anticompetitive business practices, with the objective of fostering competition to promote economic efficiency and consumer welfare, and shall take appropriate action with respect to such practices.

2. Each Party shall ensure that the measures it adopts or maintains to prohibit anticompetitive business practices, and the enforcement actions it takes pursuant to those measures, are consistent with the principles of transparency, non-discrimination and due process.

3. Each Party shall endeavor to apply its competition laws to all commercial activities in its territory. This does not preclude a Party from applying its competition laws to commercial activities outside its borders that have anticompetitive effects within its jurisdiction.

4. Each Party may provide for certain exemptions and exclusions from the application of its competition laws, provided that such exemptions and exclusions are transparent and based on public policy or public interest grounds.

5. Each Party shall maintain an authority or authorities responsible for the enforcement or promotion of its competition laws (hereinafter referred to as "competition authorities").

6. Each Party shall ensure that its competition authority or authorities apply or promote its competition laws in accordance with the objectives set out in this Chapter, and shall not discriminate on the basis of nationality.

7. Each Party shall ensure the independence in decision-making of its competition authority or authorities in relation to the application of its competition laws.

Article 13.4. Procedural Fairness In the Application of the Competition Law

1. Each Party shall adopt or maintain written procedures pursuant to which investigations relating to its competition laws shall be conducted. If such investigations are not time-bound, the competition authorities of each Party shall endeavor to conduct their investigations within a reasonable period of time.

2. Each Party shall ensure that, before imposing a sanction or remedial measures against a person for violating its competition laws, that person is given information about the competition concerns of the competition authority, including identification of the alleged violations of specific competition laws and the associated potential maximum sanctions, if not publicly available, and a reasonable opportunity to be represented by counsel.

3. Each Party shall ensure that, before imposing a sanction or remedial measures against a person for violating its competition laws, the person is given a reasonable opportunity to be heard and to present evidence, except that provision may be made for the person to be heard and to present evidence within a reasonable time after an interim sanction or remedial measure is imposed.

4. Each Party shall provide a person who is subject to the imposition of a sanction or remedial measure for violation of its competition laws with an opportunity to seek review of the sanction or remedial measure in a court or other independent tribunal established under that Party's legal system.

5. Each Party shall adopt or maintain rules of procedure and evidence that apply to enforcement proceedings regarding alleged violations of its competition laws and the determination of penalties and remedies thereunder. These rules shall include procedures for the presentation of evidence, including expert evidence if applicable, and shall apply equally to all persons in the proceeding.

6. If a Party's competition authority alleges a violation of its competition laws, that authority shall be responsible for establishing the legal and factual basis for the alleged violation in an enforcement proceeding. Nothing in this paragraph shall preclude a Party from requiring that a person against whom the allegation is made be responsible for establishing certain elements in defense of the allegation.

7. Each Party shall provide for the protection of confidential information obtained by its competition authorities during the investigation process. If a Party's competition authority uses or intends to use such information in an enforcement proceeding, that Party shall, if permissible under its legal system and as appropriate, allow the person subject to investigation timely access to the information necessary to prepare an adequate defense to the competition authority's allegations.

8. Each Party shall ensure that its competition authorities afford the person under investigation for the alleged violation of its competition laws a reasonable opportunity to consult with such competition authorities on legal, factual or procedural matters arising in the course of the investigation.

Article 13.5. Cooperation

1. The Parties recognize the importance of cooperation and coordination between their respective competition authorities to promote the effective enforcement of competition laws and the promotion of competition between the Parties.

2. The Parties agree to cooperate, as appropriate, on competition policy strategies, including through exchanges of joint actions.

3. The Parties agree to cooperate in a manner consistent with their respective legal systems and interests, including through consultation and exchange of information and in consideration of available resources.

4. The competition authorities of a Party may consider entering into a cooperation arrangement or agreement with the competition authorities of the other Party that sets forth mutually agreed terms of cooperation.

Article 13.6. Technical Cooperation

Recognizing that the Parties can benefit from sharing their diverse experiences in developing, promoting, implementing and enforcing competition law, the Parties will consider carrying out mutually agreed technical cooperation activities, subject to available resources.

Article 13.7. Transparency

1. The Parties recognise the value of developing their implementation policies in the field of competition and promotion of competition in a transparent manner.

2. Each Party shall ensure that its competition laws and public guidelines are publicly available, including on an official website. This excludes operating procedures unless disclosure is required by the Parties' legal systems.

3. At the request of a Party, the other Party shall make available to it the public information related to:

(a) Its policies and actions to promote competition;

(b) Its policies and practices for the enforcement of its competition laws; and

(c) Exemptions and exclusions from its competition laws, provided that the application specify the particular good or service and the market concerned and include information explaining how the exemption or exclusion may impede the trade or investment between the Parties.

4. Each Party shall ensure that the final determination of a violation of its competition law is made available in writing and provides, in non-criminal matters, for the determinations of fact and reasoning, including legal analysis and, if applicable, the economic, on which the decision is based.

5. Each Party shall further ensure that the final decision referred to in paragraph 4 and any order implementing that decision is publicly available, or if publication is not practicable, otherwise available to the public, in a manner that enables interested persons and the other Party to become acquainted with it. Each Party shall ensure that the published or publicly available version of the decision or order does not contain confidential information in a manner consistent with its respective legal system.

Article 13.8. Consultations

For the purpose of promoting understanding between the Parties, or addressing specific issues arising under this Chapter, consultations shall be held at the request of a Party. Such request shall indicate, if relevant, how the matter affects trade or investment between the Parties. The Party to which the request is addressed shall consider with understanding the concerns of the Party applicant.

Article 13.9. Non-Application of Dispute Resolution

Neither Party may have recourse to the dispute settlement mechanism provided for in Chapter 22 (Dispute Settlement) with respect to any matter arising under this Chapter.

Chapter 14. MICRO, SMALL AND MEDIUM-SIZED ENTERPRISES AND ENTREPRENEURS

Article 14.1. General Principles

1. The Parties recognize that micro, small and medium-sized enterprises (hereinafter referred to as "MSMEs"), which include micro, small and medium-sized enterprises and entrepreneurs, contribute significantly to trade, economic growth, employment and innovation. The Parties shall endeavor to support the growth and development of MSMEs by enhancing their ability to participate in and benefit from the opportunities created by this Agreement.

2. The Parties recognize that non-tariff barriers represent a disproportionate burden on MSMEs. They also recognize that, in addition to the provisions of this Chapter, there are other provisions in the Agreement that seek to enhance cooperation between the Parties on matters related to MSMEs or that may otherwise be particularly beneficial to MSMEs.

Article 14.2. Exchange of Information

1. Each Party shall establish or maintain its own publicly accessible website containing information with respect to this Agreement, including:

- (a) the text of this Agreement, and its relationship with ACE N° 35;
- (b) a summary of this Agreement, and
- (c) information for MSMEs, containing:
 - (i) a description of the provisions of this Agreement that the Party considers relevant to MSMEs, and
 - (ii) any additional information that the Party considers useful for MSMEs interested in benefiting from the opportunities granted by this Agreement.

2. Each Party shall include, on the site referred to in paragraph 1, links to:

- (a) the equivalent websites of the other Party, and
- (b) the websites of its government agencies and other appropriate entities that provide information that the Party considers useful to any person interested in trading, investing or doing business in the territory of that Party.

3. The information described in paragraph 2(b) may include:

- (a) the rates of duties and taxes of any kind levied on or in connection with imports or exports, with special emphasis on the situation of MSMEs;
- (b) import, export and transit procedures, including procedures at ports, airports and other points of entry, and the forms and documents required, highlighting special benefits and obligations for MSMEs, where they exist;
- (c) the procedures and regulations applicable in the area of certification of origin, including digital certification, certification of multiple transactions and exceptions in certain circumstances;
- (d) regulations and procedures on intellectual property rights;
- (e) technical regulations, standards, and sanitary and phytosanitary measures related to import and export;
- (f) procurement, transparency and publication rules, as well as other relevant provisions contained in Chapter 12 (Procurement);
- (g) procedures for business registration, with emphasis on eventual differences in relation to MSMEs, and
- (h) any additional information that the Parties deem relevant.

4. Each Party shall regularly review the information and links on the website referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 to ensure that such information and links are correct and up to date.

5. Each Party shall ensure that the information contained in this Article is presented in a clear and practical manner, with a focus on facilitating access and use by MSMEs. Whenever possible, each Party shall seek to provide the information referred to in this Article in Spanish and Portuguese.

6. No fee shall be charged for access to information provided pursuant to paragraphs 1 and 2.

Article 14.3. MSMEs Committee

1. The Parties establish a Committee on MSMEs (hereinafter referred to as the "Committee"), composed of government representatives of each Party. The Committee shall be composed of:

- (a) in the case of Brazil, by the Ministry of Industry, Foreign Trade and Services, through its Department of Support for Micro and Small Businesses and by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, through its Investment Division, or its successors, and

(b) in the case of Chile, by the Ministry of Economy, Development and Tourism, through its Small Business Division, or its successor.

2. The Committee:

(a) identify ways to assist MSMEs of the Parties to take advantage of trade opportunities under this Agreement;

(b) exchange and discuss each Party's experiences and best practices in supporting and assisting exporting MSMEs with respect to, among other things, training programs, trade education, trade finance, identification of trading partners in other Parties, and the establishment of good business references;

(c) recommend additional information that a Party may include on the website referred to in Article 2;

(d) review and coordinate the work program of the Committee with other committees, working groups and any subsidiary bodies established under this Agreement, as well as those of other relevant international organizations, in order not to duplicate those work programs and to identify appropriate opportunities for cooperation to enhance the ability of MSMEs to engage in the trade and investment opportunities provided by this Agreement;

(e) collaborate with and encourage other committees, subcommittees, working groups and any other bodies established under this Agreement to integrate MSME-related commitments and activities into their work;

(f) exchange information to assist in monitoring the implementation of this Agreement as it relates to MSMEs;

(g) review the implementation and operation of this Chapter;

(h) report results and make recommendations to the Administrative Commission that can be included in future assistance programs and MSME programs, as appropriate;

(i) will discuss current issues related to MSMEs, and

(j) consider any other matters relating to MSMEs that the Committee may decide, including any issues raised by MSMEs regarding their ability to benefit from this Agreement.

3. The Committee may meet, when necessary, in person or by any other available technological means.

4. The Committee may, where appropriate, seek to collaborate with appropriate experts and international donor organizations to carry out its programs and activities.

Article 14.4. Consultations

The Parties shall make every effort to reach, through dialogue, consultation and cooperation, an understanding on any matter that may arise regarding the interpretation and application of this Chapter.

Article 14.5. Non-Application of Dispute Resolution

Neither Party may have recourse to the dispute settlement mechanism provided for in Chapter 22 (Dispute Settlement) with respect to any matter arising under this Chapter.

Chapter 15. REGIONAL AND GLOBAL VALUE CHAINS

Article 15.1. General Provisions

1. The Parties recognize the importance of deepening integration in trade in goods, services and investment through the incorporation of new trade disciplines that recognize the current dynamics in international trade, such as regional and global value chains, with a view to modernizing and expanding the bilateral economic relationship between the Parties.

2. The Parties reaffirm their commitment to regional integration and recognize the importance of the benefits of trade integration being felt by the citizens of both Parties.

3. The Parties recognize that international trade and investment are drivers of economic growth, and that the internationalization of companies and their insertion into regional and global value chains should be facilitated.

4. The Parties stress the importance of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises (hereinafter referred to as "MSMEs"), which include micro, small and medium-sized enterprises and entrepreneurs, in the productive structure of the countries and their impact on employment, and that their proper integration into regional and global value chains contributes to a better allocation of resources and economic benefits derived from international trade, including the diversification and increase in the value added of exports.

5. The Parties underscore the importance of the participation of the private sector as a key player in regional and global value chains and their governance, and the importance of generating an enabling environment for public-private policies.
6. The Parties recognize the importance for the development of regional and global value chains of aspects such as: a better understanding of cumulation of origin, connectivity, e-commerce, digitalization and Industry 4.0, as catalysts for greater cross-border productive integration.
7. The Parties recognize the importance of the services sector, especially services associated with regional and global value chains, in trade integration.
8. Each Party shall seek to promote internally public awareness of its laws, regulations, policies and practices in matters of regional integration and regional and global value chains.

Article 15.2. International Agreements and Regional Integration Initiatives

1. The Parties reiterate their commitments regarding regional integration and economic cooperation established in ACE N° 35.
2. The Parties ratify the provisions of the WTO Trade Facilitation Agreement.
3. The Parties recognize the provisions of the 2015 Agreement on Bioceanic Corridors.
4. Each Party reaffirms its commitment to implement the obligations contained in other international agreements and initiatives to which it is a party that relate to regional integration and regional and global value chains.

Article 15.3. Cooperative Activities

1. The Parties recognize the benefit of sharing their respective experiences in designing, implementing, strengthening and monitoring policies and programs to encourage the participation of enterprises, especially MSMEs, in regional and global value chains.
2. The Parties shall undertake cooperative activities of mutual interest designed to take better advantage of the complementarities of their economies and to expand the capacity and conditions for enterprises, especially MSMEs, to access and benefit from the opportunities created by this Agreement.
3. Cooperative activities shall be carried out on issues and topics agreed upon by the Parties through interaction with their respective governmental institutions, businesses, educational and research institutions, other non-governmental organizations and their representatives, as appropriate.
4. The Parties shall take into account in cooperation activities, where appropriate, inclusive trade, the participation of women in regional and global value chains, sustainable development and corporate social responsibility.
5. Areas of cooperation may include:
 - (a) develop programs to identify the attributes that MSMEs and local productive arrangements need to develop in order to insert themselves into regional and global value chains;
 - (b) to promote the incorporation of MSMEs into the value chains led by trans-Latin multinational companies operating in the region, through joint work with such companies, taking into account the link between investment and the development of supply chains;
 - (c) develop public-private strategies for detecting opportunities, for example, economic sectors and local productive arrangements with potential for insertion into value chains and the development of productive linkages;
 - (d) propose joint strategies to analyze and promote the insertion of companies in regional and global service chains, with special emphasis on services associated with regional and global value chains;
 - (e) to study actions in conjunction with the corresponding government agencies to support the digital trade of goods and services, improve connectivity and promote the formation of regional and global value chains;

- (f) promote greater access to information on the opportunities offered by regional and global value chains for MSMEs;
- (g) sharing methods and procedures for the collection of information, the use of indicators, and the analysis of trade statistics, and
- (h) other matters to be agreed upon by the Parties.

6. The Parties may carry out cooperative activities in the areas indicated in paragraph 5 through:

- (a) workshops, seminars, dialogues and other forums to exchange knowledge, experiences and best practices;
- (b) the creation of a network of experts in regional and global value chains;
- (c) internships, visits and research studies to document and study policies and practices;
- (d) collaborative research and development of best practices on issues of mutual interest;
- (e) specific exchanges of technical expertise and technical assistance, where appropriate, and
- (f) other activities agreed upon by the Parties.

7. Priorities in cooperative activities shall be decided by the Parties based on their interests and available resources.

Article 15.4. Regional and Global Value Chain Committee

1. The Parties establish the Committee on Regional and Global Value Chains (hereinafter referred to as the "Committee") composed of representatives of government institutions responsible for regional and global value chains.

2. The Committee:

- (a) determine, organize and facilitate the cooperative activities referred to in Article 15.3;
- (b) make recommendations to the Administrative Commission on any matter related to this Chapter;
- (c) facilitate the exchange of information on the experiences of each Party with respect to the establishment and implementation of policies, strategies and programs to promote the insertion of companies in regional and global value chains to achieve the greatest possible benefit under this Agreement;
- (d) facilitate the exchange of information on experiences and lessons learned by the Parties through cooperative activities carried out under Article 15.3;
- (e) discuss joint proposals to support policies for the insertion of the Parties in regional and global value chains;
- (f) invite private sector entities, international economic forums, non-governmental organizations or other relevant institutions, as appropriate, to assist with the development and implementation of cooperative activities;
- (g) consider matters related to the implementation and operation of this Chapter;
- (h) upon request of a Party, consider and discuss any matter that may arise regarding the interpretation and application of this Chapter; and
- (i) perform such other work as may be determined by the Parties.

3. The Committee shall meet annually unless otherwise agreed by the Parties, in person or by any other available technological means, to consider any matter arising under this Chapter.

4. The Committee and the Parties may exchange information and coordinate activities by e-mail, videoconference and other forms of communication.

5. In carrying out its responsibilities, the Committee may work with other committees, working groups and subsidiary bodies established under this Agreement.

6. The Parties may decide to invite experts or relevant organizations to the Committee meetings to provide information.

7. Within two (2) years of the first meeting of the Committee, the Committee shall review the implementation of this Chapter and shall report to the Administrative Commission.

8. Each Party shall make use of its existing mechanisms and, if appropriate, develop other mechanisms to publicly report activities carried out under this Chapter.

Article 15.5. Points of Contact

To facilitate communication between the Parties on the implementation of this Chapter, each Party designates the following Contact Point and shall promptly notify the other Party if there is any change in the contact point indicated below:

(a) in the case of Brazil, the Department of Regional Economic Integration of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, or its successor, and

(b) in the case of Chile, the Directorate of Bilateral Economic Affairs of the Directorate General of International Economic Relations, or its successor.

Article 15.6. Dialogue on Regional and Global Value Chains

The Parties shall make every effort, through dialogue, consultation and cooperation, to reach an understanding on any matter arising in connection with the interpretation and application of this Chapter.

Article 15.7. Non-Application of Dispute Resolution

Neither Party may have recourse to the dispute settlement mechanism provided for in Chapter 22 (Dispute Settlement) with respect to any matter arising under this Chapter.

Chapter 16. Trade and Labour Issues

Article 16.1. Definitions

For the purposes of this Chapter:

ILO Declaration means the 1998 International Labour Organization (hereinafter referred to as "ILO") Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-up;

Labour law means the laws and regulations, or provisions of laws and regulations, of a Party that are directly related to the following internationally recognized labour rights

(a) Freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to bargain collective;

(b) The elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labour;

(c) The effective abolition of child labour and, for the purposes of this Agreement, the prohibition of the worst forms of child labour;

(d) The elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation; and

(e) Acceptable working conditions in respect of minimum wages, working hours, health and safety at work.

Article 16.2. Objectives

The objectives of this Chapter are:

(a) through dialogue and cooperation, strengthen the broader relationship between the Parties and facilitate the improvement of their capacities to deal with labor issues;

(b) progressively strengthen the welfare of the Parties' workforces through the promotion of sound labor policies and practices based on decent work and a better understanding of each Party's labor system;

(c) provide a forum to discuss and exchange views on labor issues of interest or concern to the Parties;

(d) promote the observance, dissemination and effective application of the national legislation of the Parties;

(e) develop information exchange and labor cooperation activities on mutually beneficial terms, and

(f) promote the participation of social actors in the development of public agendas through social dialogue.

Article 16.3. Shared Commitments

1. The Parties reaffirm their obligations as members of the ILO and their commitments under the ILO Declaration.
2. Recognizing the right of each Party to establish its own labor standards and, consequently, to adopt or amend its labor legislation, each Party shall endeavor to ensure that its laws establish labor standards consistent with internationally recognized labor rights.
3. The Parties shall promote the implementation of the 2011 United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights.
4. The Parties recognize that it is inappropriate to establish or use their laws, regulations, policies and labor practices for protectionist trade purposes.
5. The Parties recognize that non-discrimination and gender equity are fundamental considerations in promoting inclusive and sustainable economic growth and in generating more employment opportunities, income and prospects for all citizens. Likewise, the Parties shall make efforts to adopt policies that remove systemic obstacles to the full participation of women and vulnerable groups in the labor market.

Article 16.4. Labor Rights

1. Each Party shall respect the sovereign right of the other Party to establish its own national policies and priorities and to establish, administer and control its labor laws and regulations.
2. Each Party shall adopt and maintain in its laws and regulations, as well as in the practices deriving therefrom, the following rights as set forth in the ILO Declaration:
 - (a) freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining;
 - (b) the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labor;
 - (c) the effective abolition of child labor, and
 - (d) elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation.
3. In addition, each Party shall adopt and maintain laws, regulations, as well as practices derived therefrom, regulating working conditions with respect to minimum wages, hours of work, and occupational safety and health.

Article 16.5. Non-derogation

The Parties recognize that it is inappropriate to promote trade or investment by weakening or reducing the protection afforded by each Party's labor laws or by refraining from monitoring its labor laws. Accordingly, no Party may derogate from, or otherwise derogate from, or offer to derogate from, or otherwise derogate from, its labor laws or regulations implementing Article 16.4 if to do so would conflict with, weaken, or reduce adherence to a right set out in Article 16.4.2 or a condition of employment referred to in Article 16.4.3 in a manner that affects trade or investment between the Parties.

Article 16.6. Enforcement of Labor Laws

1. No Party shall fail to effectively enforce its labor laws, through a sustained or recurring course of action or inaction, in a manner that affects trade or investment between the Parties after the date of entry into force of this Agreement.
2. Each Party retains the right to exercise reasonable discretion in enforcement and to make good faith decisions on the allocation of resources for labor enforcement activities relating to the core labor rights and acceptable working conditions listed in Article 16.4, provided that the exercise of that discretion and those decisions are not inconsistent with its obligations under this Chapter.
3. Nothing in this Chapter shall be construed to empower authorities of one Party to carry out labour law enforcement activities in the territory of the other Party.

Article 16.7. Forced or Compulsory Labor

1. Each Party recognizes the objective of eliminating all forms of forced or compulsory labor, including forced or compulsory child labor.
2. The Parties agree to identify opportunities for cooperation to exchange information, experiences and best practices in this area.

Article 16.8. Responsible Business Conduct

Each Party shall encourage enterprises operating within its territory or jurisdiction to incorporate, in their internal policies, principles and standards of responsible business conduct, which contribute to achieving sustainable development, in its labor dimension, and which are consistent with its respective applicable legislation and with internationally recognized guidelines and principles that have been adopted or endorsed by that Party.

Article 16.9. Cooperation

1. The Parties recognize the importance of cooperation as a mechanism to effectively implement this Chapter, increase opportunities for knowledge and exchange of good practices of the Parties in order to improve labor standards and further advance common commitments with respect to labor issues and decent work, including the well-being and quality of life of workers and the principles and rights set forth in the ILO Declaration.
2. In the choice of areas of cooperation and the implementation of their activities, the Parties shall be guided by the following principles:
 - (a) consideration of each Party's priorities and available resources;
 - (b) broad participation of, and to the mutual benefit of, the Parties;
 - (c) relevance of capacity and skills development activities, including technical assistance between the Parties to address labor protection issues and activities to promote innovative labor practices in the workplace;
 - (d) generation of measurable, positive and meaningful work results;
 - (e) resource efficiency, including through the use of technology, as appropriate, to optimize the resources used in cooperative activities;
 - (f) complementarity with existing regional and multilateral initiatives to address labor issues, and
 - (g) transparency and public participation.
3. Each Party shall seek the views and, as appropriate, the participation of persons or organizations of that Party, including representatives of workers and employers, in identifying potential areas for cooperation and carrying out cooperative activities. Subject to the agreement of the Parties, cooperative activities may involve relevant regional or international organizations, such as the ILO, as well as non-Parties.
4. The financing of cooperative activities carried out under this Chapter shall be decided by the Parties on a case-by-case basis through the Labor Committee established in Article 16.13.4.
5. In addition to the cooperative activities set forth in this Article, the Parties shall, as appropriate, join and take advantage of their respective memberships in regional and multilateral fora to promote their common interests in addressing labor issues.
6. The Parties may carry out the cooperation activities through:
 - (a) workshops, seminars, dialogues and other forums to exchange knowledge, experiences and best practices, including online forums and other knowledge-sharing platforms;
 - (b) study tours, visits and research studies to document and study policies and practices;
 - (c) collaborative research and development related to best practices in areas of mutual interest;
 - (d) specific exchanges of technical expertise and technical assistance, where appropriate, and
 - (e) other forms as the Parties may decide.

Article 16.10. Public Awareness and Procedural Safeguards

1. Each Party shall facilitate and promote public awareness of its labor legislation, including by ensuring that information related thereto and the procedures for its application and enforcement are available to the public.
2. Each Party shall ensure, as provided in its legal system, that persons with a legally recognized right or interest in a particular matter have appropriate access to impartial and independent tribunals for the enforcement of that Party's labor laws.
3. Each Party shall ensure that proceedings before the courts for the enforcement of its labor laws comply with due process in accordance with each Party's legal system. Any hearing in such proceedings shall be open to the public, except where the Party's legal system requires otherwise.
4. Each Party shall provide, as appropriate under its legal system, that the parties to such proceedings shall have the right to file appeals and to seek review or appeal.
5. Each Party shall provide, in accordance with its legal system, procedures for the effective enforcement of the final decisions of its courts in these proceedings.

Article 16.11. Public Communications

1. Each Party shall, in accordance with its legal system, provide that communications written by a person or organization of that Party on matters relating to this Chapter are received and considered. Accordingly, each Party shall make available to the public, in an accessible manner, its procedures for the receipt and consideration of written submissions, for example by posting them on an appropriate website.
2. A person or organization of a Party may submit a communication to the contact point of that Party, designated pursuant to Article 16.13. In such a case, a Party may provide in its procedures that, in order to be admissible for consideration, a communication must, at a minimum, be submitted:
 - (a) Raise an issue directly relevant to this Chapter;
 - (b) Clearly identify the person or organization making the submission; and
 - (c) Explain, to the best of their ability, how and to what extent the matter raised affects trade or investment between the Parties.
3. Each Party shall respond to such communications in a timely manner in writing and in accordance with its internal procedures.

Article 16.12. Institutional Provisions

1. In order to facilitate communication between the Parties for purposes of this Chapter, each Party shall designate a contact point within its Ministry of Labor or Ministry of Foreign Affairs or corresponding entity, within six (6) months following the date of entry into force of this Agreement. Each Party shall notify the other, as soon as possible, of any change in the point of contact.
2. The Parties may exchange information by any means of communication, including the Internet and videoconferencing.
3. The points of contact shall:
 - (a) facilitate frequent communication and coordination between the Parties;
 - (b) attend the Labor Committee established in paragraph 4;
 - (c) report to the Administrative Commission regarding the implementation of this Chapter, if necessary;
 - (d) act as a channel of communication with the public in their respective territories, and
 - (e) work together, including with other appropriate agencies of their governments, to develop and implement cooperative activities, consistent with the other chapters of this Agreement.
4. The Parties establish the Labor Committee (hereinafter referred to as the "Committee"), which may meet to discuss matters of mutual interest, including potential areas of cooperation, the review of the implementation of this Chapter and to address any issues that may arise between them. The Committee shall be composed of high-level government representatives or their designees responsible for labor and trade matters.

5. The Committee shall meet:

- (a) in regular sessions at least every two (2) years, and
- (b) at extraordinary sessions at the request of any of the Parties.

The ordinary sessions shall be chaired alternatively by each Party and the extraordinary sessions by the Party that requested it. The sessions shall be held, as a general rule, by videoconference or digital means and, in person, every two (2) years if the Parties so agree.

6. The Committee may hold public meetings to report on relevant matters when the Parties so agree.

7. All recommendations of the Committee shall be made by mutual consent.

8. The functions of the Committee shall be:

(a) supervise the implementation of this Chapter and make recommendations on its future development and, to this end, within three (3) years after the date of entry into force of this Agreement, the Committee shall review its operation and effectiveness in the light of the experience gained;

(b) establish priority areas for cooperation activities and approve, during its first year of operation, the cooperation work plan that will have a duration of two (2) years;

(c) directing the work and activities established by the same;

(d) to approve the publication, in accordance with the terms and conditions it may establish, of reports and studies prepared by independent experts;

(e) facilitate consultations through the exchange of information;

(f) deal with questions arising between the Parties concerning the interpretation or application of this Chapter, and

(g) promote the collection and publication of comparable information on the application of laws, labor standards and labor market indicators on specific issues of interest to the Parties.

9. The Committee may consider any other matter within the scope of this Chapter and take such other action in the exercise of its functions as the Parties may agree.

Article 16.13. Public Participation

1. In carrying out its activities, including meetings, the Committee may provide the means for the reception and consideration of the views of representatives of its labor and business organizations, as well as of persons with a legitimate interest in matters related to this Chapter.

2. For the purposes of paragraph 1, each Party shall establish or maintain and consult with national bodies of tripartite membership or establish mechanisms for that purpose, with the objective of providing views on matters relating to this Chapter.

Article 16.14. Dialogue on Trade and Labor Issues

1. The Parties shall make every effort through dialogue, consultation, exchange of information and, where appropriate, cooperation, to address any matter that may affect the operation of this Chapter.

2. A Party may request a consultation with respect to any matter arising under this Chapter by delivering a written communication to the contact point of the other Party. That Party shall include information that is specific and sufficient to enable the other Party to respond, including identification of the matter at issue under this Chapter.

3. Unless otherwise agreed, the Parties shall meet within ninety (90) days from the date of receipt of the written communication.

4. The Parties shall make every effort to reach an understanding on the matter, which may include appropriate cooperative activities.

5. If the Parties are unable to reach an understanding, a Party may request the Committee to meet to consider the matter by submitting a written request to the other Party's point of contact.
6. The Committee shall meet promptly after delivery of the request and shall seek to reach an understanding on the matter. At the Committee, the Parties shall prepare a report reflecting the outcome of the meeting, which may contain recommendations for actions to be implemented by the Parties as soon as possible.
7. If the Parties to the Committee are unable to reach an understanding, a Party may refer the matter to the Administrative Commission.
8. The meetings and communications held in accordance with this Article shall be confidential. The meetings may be held in person or by any available technological means, as agreed by the Parties.

Article 16.15. Non-Application of Dispute Resolution

Neither Party may have recourse to the dispute settlement mechanism provided for in Chapter 22 (Dispute Settlement) with respect to any matter arising under this Chapter.

Article 17.10. Invasive Alien Species

1. The Parties recognize that the transboundary movement of terrestrial and aquatic invasive alien species through trade-related pathways may adversely affect the environment, economic activities, development and human health. The Parties also recognize that the prevention, early detection, control and, where possible, eradication of alien invasive species are fundamental strategies for the prevention and mitigation of risks related to the introduction of such species and for the management of adverse impacts.

2. The Committee on Trade and Environment shall coordinate with the Committee on Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures established under Chapter 4 (Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures) to identify opportunities for cooperation to exchange information and management experiences on the movement, prevention, early detection, control and, where possible, eradication of invasive alien species, in order to enhance efforts to assess and address the risks and adverse impacts of invasive alien species.

Article 17.11. Marine Capture Fisheries

1. The Parties recognize their role as consumers, producers and marketers of fishery products and the importance of the marine fisheries sector for their development and for the livelihood of their fishing communities, including artisanal and small-scale fisheries. The Parties also recognize that securing the availability of fishery resources is a challenge to the international community. Therefore, the Parties recognize the importance of taking measures aimed at the conservation and sustainable management of fisheries.

2. The Parties recognize that inadequate fisheries management, certain forms of fisheries subsidies that contribute to overfishing and overcapacity, as well as illegal, unreported and unregulated fishing (hereinafter referred to as "IUU fishing"), can have significant negative impacts on trade, development and the environment and recognize the need for individual and collective action to address the problems of overfishing and unsustainable use of fisheries resources. The term "illegal, unreported and unregulated fishing" shall be understood to have the same meaning as paragraph 3 of the International Plan of Action to Prevent, Deter and Eliminate Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated Fishing (2001 Plan of Action for IUU Fishing) of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (hereinafter referred to as "FAO").

3. In developing and implementing conservation and management measures, Parties shall take into account social, commercial, developmental and environmental concerns and the importance of artisanal or small-scale fisheries to the livelihoods of local fishing communities.

4. Each Party shall seek to operate a fisheries management system that regulates wild marine capture fisheries and is designed to:

(a) prevent overfishing and overcapacity;

(b) reduce bycatch of particularly vulnerable non-target species, including through regulation of fishing gear that results in bycatch and regulation of fishing in areas where bycatch is likely to occur;

(c) promote the recovery of overfished stocks for all marine fisheries in which persons of the Party are engaged in fishing activities, and

(d) promote fisheries management with an ecosystem approach, including through cooperation among the Parties.

Such management system shall be based on the best available scientific evidence and internationally recognized best practices for fisheries management and conservation, as reflected in the relevant provisions of international instruments to ensure the sustainable use and conservation of marine species. These instruments include, inter alia and as applicable, the 1982 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea; the 1995 United Nations Agreement for the Implementation of the Provisions of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea of 10 December 1982 relating to the Conservation and Management of Straddling Fish Stocks and Highly Migratory Fish Stocks (UN Fish Stocks Agreement); the 1995 United Nations Code of Conduct for the Conservation and Management of Straddling Fish Stocks and Highly Migratory Fish Stocks (UN Fish Stocks Agreement); and the 1995 United Nations Code of Conduct for the Conservation and Management of Straddling Fish Stocks and Highly Migratory Fish Stocks (UN Fish Stocks Agreement); the FAO Code of Conduct for Responsible Fisheries; the 1993 Agreement to Promote Compliance with International Conservation and Management Measures by Fishing Vessels on the High Seas (Compliance Agreement); the 2001 Plan of Action for IUU Fishing; and the 2009 Agreement on Port State Measures to Prevent, Deter and Eliminate Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated Fishing.

5. Each Party shall promote the long-term conservation of sharks, sea turtles, seabirds and marine mammals, through the implementation and effective enforcement of conservation and management measures. Such measures should include, as appropriate:

(a) in the case of sharks: the collection of species-specific information, bycatch mitigation measures, catch limits and finning bans, and

(b) in the case of sea turtles, seabirds and marine mammals: bycatch mitigation measures, relevant conservation and management measures, prohibitions and other measures in accordance with relevant international agreements to which the Party is a party.

6. In support of efforts to combat IUU fishing practices and to help deter trade in products of species harvested by such practices, each Party shall:

(a) cooperate to identify needs and build capacity to support the implementation of this Article;

(b) support monitoring, control, surveillance, compliance and enforcement systems, including through the adoption or revision, as applicable, of measures to:

(i) deter vessels flying their flag and their nationals from engaging in IUU fishing activities, and

(ii) combat the transshipment at sea of fish or fishery products caught through IUU fishing activities, in accordance with its legal system;

(c) implementing port state measures;

(d) endeavor not to undermine relevant conservation and management measures adopted by RFMOs of which it is not a member, so as not to undermine such measures, including catch documentation schemes.

7. Each Party shall, to the extent possible, provide the opportunity to comment on draft measures designed to prevent trade in fishery products resulting from IUU fishing.

8. For greater certainty, this Article does not apply to aquaculture.

Article 17.12. Forestry Matters

1. The Parties recognize the importance of management and conservation, including sustainable management of forests, for sustainable development.

2. In accordance with their international obligations in forestry matters and their legal system, the Parties undertake to:

(a) to promote the trade of legally harvested forest products, especially those from sustainable forest management;

(b) exchange information and, as appropriate, cooperate on initiatives to promote forest management, including initiatives to combat illegal logging and promote sustainable forest management; and

(c) cooperate, where appropriate, in international fora dealing with the conservation and sustainable management of forests, with a view to sustainable development.

Article 17.13. Sustainable Agriculture

1. The Parties recognize the increasing impact that global changes such as climate change, biodiversity loss, land degradation, droughts and the emergence of new pests and diseases have on the development of productive sectors such as agriculture, livestock and forestry.

2. The Parties recognize the importance of strengthening policies and developing programs that contribute to the development of more productive, sustainable, inclusive and resilient agricultural systems.

3. The Parties will share information and experiences in the development and implementation of integrated policies aimed at incorporating the pillars of sustainable agricultural development. In this regard, the Parties will seek to improve agricultural productivity by considering the protection and sustainable use of ecosystems and natural resources, including water, soil and air, biodiversity and ecosystem services, as well as strengthening the social dimension, in addition to contributing to the effective adaptation and mitigation of the agricultural, forestry and food sectors to global changes.

Article 17.14. Trade and Climate Change

1. The Parties recognize that climate change poses significant risks to communities, infrastructure, the economy, the environment and human health, with potential consequences for international trade, and that efforts are required to build resilience. The Parties also reaffirm the principles and objectives of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, the Kyoto Protocol and the Paris Agreement and their commitments under the respective instruments.

2. In accordance with the foregoing, each Party shall:

(a) promote the contribution of trade to sustainable development and the transition to a sustainable low-emission economy and climate-resilient development, and

(b) promote actions on mitigation and adaptation to climate change.

3. The Parties recognize, in the context of sustainable development, that there are different economic, social and environmental policy instruments that enable the achievement of national climate change objectives and support the achievement of their international climate change commitments. The Parties may share information and experiences in the development and implementation of such instruments. In particular, the Parties recognize that there are important areas of collaboration between the Parties on climate change adaptation and mitigation.

4. Pursuant to Article 17.8, the Parties shall cooperate to address matters of common interest. Areas of cooperation may include, among others: climate finance; climate governance and institutions; sustainable consumption and production and climate change; air quality co-benefits of greenhouse gas control measures; climate change mitigation and adaptation; resilient water management; sustainable agriculture; energy efficiency; research and development of cost-effective low-emission technologies; development of alternative, clean and renewable energy sources; solutions to deforestation and forest degradation; recovery of degraded areas; monitoring, reporting and verification (MRV) of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions; methodologies for accounting for GHG emissions reductions under international agreements; carbon pricing mechanisms and other complementary measures to support a low-emissions transition; control of the spread of pests and diseases; preparedness for and action against extreme events related to climate change, such as forest fires, drought and desertification.

Article 17.15. Indigenous and Local Communities

1. The Parties recognize the contribution of indigenous and local communities, defined in accordance with their respective legal systems, to the promotion of sustainable development, including in its environmental dimension, and the importance of promoting trade that is inclusive and that can strengthen this contribution.

2. The Parties will seek to exchange information and experiences and cooperate in areas of mutual interest, such as the participation of indigenous and local communities in environmental management and trade, and the promotion of the contributions that these communities make to sustainable development.

Article 17.16. Trade In Wild Flora and Fauna

1. The Parties affirm the importance of combating illegal trade in wildlife and recognize that this trade undermines efforts to conserve and sustainably manage these natural resources.

2. The Parties, in accordance with their international obligations in the MEAs and their legal system, undertake to:

(a) promote trade in legally obtained wild flora and fauna; and

(b) exchange information and cooperate, as appropriate, on initiatives of mutual interest to improve coordination, communication, and training among authorities in areas such as legal and sustainable trade, and to promote conservation and combat poaching and wildlife trafficking.

Article 17.17. Institutional Provisions

1. In order to facilitate communication between the Parties for purposes of this Chapter, each Party shall designate a contact point within one hundred and eighty (180) days of the date of entry into force of this Agreement. Each Party shall notify the other Party, as soon as possible, of any change with respect to the point of contact.

5. A Party may, in a manner consistent with its legal system, comply with the provisions of this Article relating to a proposed regulation by publishing a policy proposal, discussion paper, summary of the regulation or other document containing sufficient detail to adequately inform interested persons and the other Party.

Article 20.3. Notification and Provision of Information

1. Each Party shall notify the other Party, to the extent possible, of any measure that the Party considers could substantially affect the operation of this Agreement.
2. A Party shall, at the request of the other Party, provide information and reply as soon as possible to its questions concerning any measure, whether or not the other Party has been previously notified of that measure.
3. Any provision of information referred to in this Article shall be made without prejudice to whether or not the measure is compatible with this Agreement.

Article 20.4. Administrative Procedures

In order to administer in a consistent, impartial and reasonable manner all measures referred to in Article 20.2 with respect to persons, goods or services, in particular of the other Party in specific cases, affecting matters covered by this Agreement, each Party shall ensure that:

- (a) administrative procedures are in accordance with the legal system of that Party;
- (b) whenever possible under its legal system, persons of the other Party who are directly affected by an administrative proceeding are given reasonable notice of the commencement of the proceeding, including a description of its nature, a statement of the legal basis under which the proceeding is initiated, and a general description of all issues in dispute; and
- (c) where time, the nature of the administrative proceeding and the public interest permit, persons of the other Party who are directly affected by an administrative proceeding shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to present facts and arguments in support of their positions prior to any final administrative action.

Article 20.5. Review and Challenge

1. Each Party, in accordance with its legal system, shall ensure access to judicial or administrative tribunals and procedures for the prompt review and, where warranted, correction of administrative actions relating to matters covered by this Agreement. Such tribunals and judicial or administrative procedures shall be impartial and their members shall have no economic or personal interest in the outcome of the matter.
2. Each Party shall ensure that, before such courts or in such proceedings, the Parties have the right to:
 - (a) a reasonable opportunity to support or defend their respective positions, and
 - (b) a decision based on the evidence and submissions or, in cases where required by its domestic law, on the record compiled by the administrative authority.
3. Each Party shall ensure, subject to challenge or further review as provided in its domestic law, that such decision is implemented by, and governs the practice of, the agency or authority with respect to the administrative action that is the subject of such decision.

Section B. Anti-Corruption

Article 20.6. Scope of Application

1. The Parties affirm their determination to eliminate bribery and corruption in international trade and recognize the need to develop integrity within the public and private sectors and that each sector has complementary responsibilities in this regard.
2. The scope of this Section is limited to measures to eliminate bribery and corruption with respect to any matter covered by this Agreement.

17. During and even after the arbitration proceedings, the Parties, their representatives, the arbitrators or any other person involved in the arbitration proceedings shall keep confidential the information qualified as such, as well as the deliberations of the arbitral tribunal, the draft award and the comments thereon.

18. The Administrative Unit shall take all reasonable measures necessary to ensure that experts, stenographers and other persons involved in the arbitration proceedings safeguard the confidentiality of information qualified as such.

Functioning of arbitration tribunals

19. Once an arbitrator has been appointed pursuant to Article 22.7, the Administrative Unit shall notify the arbitrator by the most expeditious means possible. Together with the communication, a copy of the Code of Conduct and an affidavit of confidentiality and compliance with the Code of Conduct shall be sent to each person appointed to the arbitral tribunal, whether as principal or alternate arbitrator. Each person appointed to the arbitral tribunal shall have three (3) days to communicate his or her acceptance, in which case he or she shall return the duly signed affidavit to the Administrative Unit. If the designated person does not communicate his/her acceptance to serve on the arbitral tribunal in writing to the Administrative Unit within the indicated period, it shall be understood that he/she does not accept the position.

20. The Administrative Unit shall inform the Parties, by the most expeditious means possible, of the response of each person appointed to the arbitral tribunal or of the fact that no response has been received. Once the persons appointed to the arbitral tribunal as arbitrators and alternate arbitrators have communicated their acceptance, the Administrative Unit shall so communicate, by the most expeditious means possible, to the Parties.

21. Pursuant to Article 22.7.7, any Party may challenge an arbitrator or a candidate arbitrator if it considers that he or she does not meet the requirements set forth in Article 22.7.9.

21.1. Request for challenge of arbitrator or alternate arbitrator appointed by a Party

(a) Any Party that becomes aware of an alleged violation or breach by the arbitrator or alternate arbitrator appointed by the other Party of the requirements for appointment as arbitrator or of the obligations set forth in the Code of Conduct and in Article 22.7.9 may request his or her challenge. The request for challenge shall be reasoned and notified in writing to the other Party, to the challenged arbitrator and to the arbitral tribunal within fifteen (15) days from the date of the challenge.

(b) The Parties shall attempt to reach an agreement on the challenge within fifteen (15) days following the notification of the request. The arbitrator may, after the challenge has been raised, resign from his function, without this implying acceptance of the validity of the reasons for the challenge.

(c) If the parties are unable to reach an agreement or if the challenged arbitrator does not resign, the request for challenge shall be decided by the chairman of the arbitral tribunal within fifteen (15) days after the expiration of the time limit set forth in (b). In the event that the chairman of the arbitral tribunal has not accepted his designation by the date of expiration of the time limit set forth in (b), the challenge request shall be submitted once the chairman of the arbitral tribunal has accepted his designation.

(d) If, pursuant to (b) or (c), the request for disqualification of the original arbitrator is granted or the original arbitrator resigns, the substitute arbitrator appointed pursuant to Article 22.7 shall act as the original arbitrator. If the challenge concerns an incumbent arbitrator who was an alternate arbitrator, the merits of the challenge shall entitle the appointing Party to appoint a new incumbent arbitrator in accordance with Article 22.7.

21.2. Challenge of the chairman of the arbitral tribunal

(a) Any Party that becomes aware of an alleged violation or breach by the chairman of the arbitral tribunal of the requirements for appointment as chairman of the arbitral tribunal or of the obligations set forth in the Code of Conduct and Article 22.7.9 may request the removal of the chairman of the arbitral tribunal. The request for disqualification shall be reasoned and notified in writing to the other Party, to the chairman of the arbitral tribunal and to the arbitral tribunal within fifteen (15) days of the appointment, drawing of lots or from the time the fact giving rise to the request for disqualification becomes known.

(b) The Parties shall attempt to reach an agreement on the challenge of the chairman of the arbitral tribunal within fifteen (15) days of the notification of the challenge. The chairman of the arbitral tribunal may, after the challenge has been raised, resign from his office, without this implying acceptance of the validity of the reasons for the challenge.

(c) If it is not possible to reach an agreement or if the challenged arbitrator does not resign, the request for challenge shall prevail and the alternate arbitrator shall take over. Each party may request the challenge of the chairman of the arbitral tribunal only once. However, a request for a challenge of the presiding arbitrator in which the presiding arbitrator has resigned pursuant to (b) shall not be counted as a request for a challenge for the purposes of this subsection.

22. The time limits provided for in this Chapter and in these Rules, which are counted from the appointment of the last arbitrator, shall begin to run from the date on which the arbitrator accepted his appointment.

23. The chairman of the arbitral tribunal shall preside at all its meetings. The arbitral tribunal may delegate to its chairman the power to make administrative and procedural decisions.

24. The arbitral tribunal shall perform its functions in person or by any technological means, as agreed by the Parties.

25. Only the arbitrators may participate in the deliberations of the arbitral tribunal, unless, after prior notice to the Parties to the dispute, the tribunal allows the presence of their assistants and, where appropriate, interpreters.

26. For procedural matters not covered by these Rules, the arbitral tribunal, in consultation with the Parties, may establish supplementary rules of procedure, provided that they do not conflict with the provisions of the Agreement and these Rules. When supplementary rules of procedure are adopted, the chairman of the arbitral tribunal shall immediately notify the Parties.

Hearings

27. The Parties shall designate their representatives before the arbitral tribunal, and may appoint counsel to defend their rights.

28. The presiding arbitrator shall fix the place, date and time of the hearing, in consultation with the Parties, subject to Rule 10. The date of the hearing shall be fixed after the Parties have filed their initial and counter-submissions, respectively. The Administrative Unit shall notify the Parties, by the most expeditious means possible, of the place, date and time of the hearing.

29. Unless otherwise agreed by the Parties, the hearing shall be held in the capital of the Party complained against.

30. When it considers it necessary, the arbitral tribunal may, with the agreement of the Parties, convene additional hearings.

31. All arbitrators must be present at the hearings, otherwise they cannot be held. The hearings shall be held in person. However, the arbitral tribunal, subject to the consent of the Parties, may agree that the hearing be held by any other means.

32. All hearings shall be closed to the public. However, when a Party for justified reasons so requests, and with the agreement of the other Party, such hearings may be open, except when information designated as confidential by one of the Parties is being discussed. Unless otherwise agreed by the Parties, the presence of the public at the hearings of the arbitral tribunal shall be by simultaneous transmission by closed-circuit television or any other technological means.

33. If a Party wishes to submit confidential information during the hearing, it shall so advise the Administrative Unit at least ten (10) days prior to the hearing. The Administrative Unit shall take the necessary steps to ensure that the hearing is conducted in accordance with Rule 32.

34. Unless the Parties agree that the hearing shall be open, only those present may be present at the hearings:

(a) representatives of the Parties, officials and advisors designated by them, and

(b) assistants to the arbitrators and interpreters if required.

In all circumstances, the presence of any person from whom a benefit could reasonably be expected from access to confidential information is excluded.

35. The Parties may object to the presence of any of the persons referred to in Rule 34 no later than two (2) days before the hearing, stating the reasons for such objection. The objection shall be decided by the arbitral tribunal prior to the commencement of the hearing.

36. No later than five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing, each Party shall submit to the Administrative Unit a list of the persons who will attend the hearing as representatives and other members of its delegation.

37. The hearing shall be conducted by the presiding arbitrator, who shall ensure that the Parties are given equal time to present their oral arguments.

38. The hearing will be conducted in the following order:

(a) pleadings

(i) the Complaining Party's allegation, and

(ii) pleading of the Party complained against.

(b) replies and rejoinders

(i) reply of the complaining Party, and

(ii) rejoinder of the Party complained against.

39. The arbitral tribunal may put questions to any Party at any time during the hearing.

40. The Administrative Unit shall adopt the necessary measures to keep a system for recording the oral presentations. Such record shall be made by any means, including transcription, that ensures the preservation and reproduction of its contents. At the request of any of the Parties or the arbitral tribunal, the Administrative Unit shall provide a copy of the record. In the case of a hearing closed to the public, such record may only be requested by the Parties or the arbitral tribunal.

Complementary documents

41. The arbitral tribunal may put questions in writing to any Party at any time during the proceedings, and shall determine the period of time within which it shall deliver its answers.

42. Each Party shall be given the opportunity to comment in writing on the answers referred to in Rule 41 within such period of time as the arbitral tribunal may prescribe.

43. Notwithstanding the provisions of Rule 10, within ten (10) days after the date of the conclusion of the hearing, the Parties may submit supplementary written submissions in connection with any matter that has arisen during the hearing.

Burden of proof with respect to incompatible measures and exceptions

44. Where the complaining Party considers that a measure of the Party complained against is inconsistent with the obligations under the Agreement; or that the Party complained against has otherwise failed to comply with the obligations under the Agreement, it shall have the burden of proving such inconsistency or failure, as the case may be.

45. Where the Party complained against considers that a measure is justified by an exception under the Agreement, it shall have the burden of proving it.

46. The Parties shall offer or submit evidence with the initial and rebuttal pleadings in support of the arguments made in such pleadings. The Parties may also submit additional evidence in their rebuttal and rejoinder pleadings.

Ex parte contacts

47. The arbitral tribunal shall not meet or contact either Party in the absence of the other.

48. No arbitrator may discuss any matter relating to the arbitration proceedings with any Party in the absence of the other Party and the other arbitrators.

49. In the absence of the Parties, an arbitral tribunal may not meet or have discussions concerning the subject matter of the arbitral proceedings with a person or entity that provides information or technical advice.

Information and technical advice

50. The arbitral tribunal may not request information or technical advice pursuant to Article 22.10.7, whether at the request of a Party or on its own initiative, later than ten (10) days after the date of the hearing.

51. Within five (5) days after the date on which the arbitral tribunal consults with the Parties on the request for information or technical advice, it shall select the person or entity to provide such information or technical advice.

52. The arbitral tribunal shall select experts or advisors strictly on the basis of their expertise, objectivity, impartiality, independence, reliability and sound judgment.

53. The arbitral tribunal may not select as an expert or advisor a person who has, or whose employers, partners, associates or relatives have, a financial, personal or other interest that may affect his or her independence and impartiality in the proceeding.

54. The arbitral tribunal shall deliver a copy of its request for information or technical advice to the Administrative Unit, which in turn shall deliver it by the most expeditious means possible to the Parties and to the persons or entities that are to provide the information or technical advice.

55. The persons or entities shall deliver the information or technical advice to the Administrative Unit within the period of time established by the arbitral tribunal, which in no case shall exceed ten (10) days from the date on which they received the request from the arbitral tribunal. The Administrative Unit shall deliver to the Parties and to the arbitral tribunal, by the most expeditious means possible, the information provided by the experts or technical advisors.

56. Either Party may comment on the information provided by the experts or technical advisors within five (5) business days from the date of delivery. Such comments shall be submitted to the Administrative Unit, which, in turn, no later than the following day, shall deliver them to the other Party and to the arbitral tribunal.

57. Where a request for information or technical advice is made, the Parties may agree to suspend the arbitration proceedings for a period of time to be determined by the arbitral tribunal in consultation with the Parties.

Computation of deadlines

58. All time limits set forth in this Chapter, in these Rules or by the arbitral tribunal shall be calculated from the day following the day on which the notice, request or document relating to the arbitration proceedings was received.

59. In the event that any action is required to be taken before or after a date or event, the day of that date or event shall not be included in the computation of the term.

60. When the period begins or expires on a non-business day, the provisions of Rule 13 shall apply.

61. All time limits established in this Chapter and in these Rules may be modified by mutual agreement of the Parties.

Contact unit

62. Each Party shall designate a Contact Unit to provide administrative support to the arbitral tribunal. Once designated, its address shall be communicated to the Administrative Commission no later than sixty (60) days from the date of entry into force of this Agreement.

Administrative unit

63. The Administrative Unit shall have the following functions:

(a) provide administrative assistance to the arbitral tribunal, the arbitrators and their assistants, interpreters, translators, persons or entities selected by the arbitral tribunal to provide information or technical advice and other persons involved in the arbitral proceedings;

(b) make available to the arbitrators, upon acceptance of their appointment, documents relevant to the arbitration proceedings;

(c) keep a copy of the complete file of each arbitration proceeding;

(d) inform the Parties of the amount of the costs and other expenses associated with the arbitration proceeding that each Party will bear, and

(e) organize logistical issues related to the hearings.
